MIDNIGHT PLEA SENT TO EUROPE BY PRESIDENT

Asks Nazis and Foes to Avert War.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 26 [Monday].—(AP)—President Roosevelt, in a direct message to Adolf Hitler and President Benes of Czechoslovakia, appealed today for peace.

The President also sent the same message through Secretary of State Hull to prime ministers of Great Britain and France.

The President's telegram was released to the press during a dramatic after-midnight convocation of correspondents, many of whom were routed from their beds. Secretary Hull had worked with the President on the message throughout the day.

The telegram went forward to the four European capitals involved shortly after midnight. Officials felt the situation so serious that the President could not wait longer to send his appeal for peace.

Text of Roosevelt Appeal.

The text of Mr. Roosevelt's message follows:

"The fabric of peace on the continent of Europe, if not throughout the rest of the world, is in immediate danger. The consequences of its rupture are incalculable. Should hostilities break out the lives of millions of men, women, and children in every country involved will most certainly be lost under circumstances of unspeakable horror.

"The economic system of every country involved is certain to be shattered. The social structure of every country involved may well be completely wrecked.

"The United States has no political entanglements. It is caught in no mesh of hatred. Elements of all Europe have formed its civilization. The supreme desire of the American people is to live in peace. But in the event of a general war they face the fact that no nation can escape some measure of consequences of such a world catastrophe.

Warns People Pray for Peace.

"The traditional policy of the United States has been the furtherance of the settlement of international disputes by pacific means. It is my conviction that all people under the threat of war today pray that peace may be made before rather than after war.

"It is imperative that peoples everywhere recall that every civilized nation of the world voluntarily assumed the solemn obligations of the Kellogg-Briand pact of 1928 to solve controversies only by pacific methods. In addition most nations are parties to other binding treaties, obligating them to preserve peace. Furthermore, all countries have today available for such peaceful solution of difficulties which may arise, treaties of arbitration and conciliation to which they are parties.

"Whatever may be the differences in the controversies at issue and however difficult of pacific settlement they may be, I am persuaded that there is no problem so difficult or so pressing for solution that it cannot be justly solved by the resort to reason rather than by the resort to force.

Sees Hope if Parleys Continue.

"During the present crisis the people of the United States and their government have earnestly hoped that the negotiations for the adjustment of controversy which has now arisen in Europe might reach a successful conclusion.

"So long as these negotiations continue so long will there remain the hope that reason and the spirit of equity may prevail and that the world may thereby escape the madness of a new resort to war.

"On behalf of 130 millions of people of the United States of America and for the sake of humanity everywhere I most earnestly appeal to you not to break off negotiations looking to a peaceful, fair, and constructive settlement of the questions at issue.

"I earnestly repeat that so long as negotiations continue, difficulties may be reconciled. Once they are broken off reason is banished and force asserts itself. And force produces no solution for the future good of humanity."

A Little Lady's Lane Is Pawn in Street Fight

In a large white house on Haussen court a little old lady wondered yesterday why efforts are being made to change the name of the street, which is only one block long, to Crawford avenue. She is Mrs. Eda Haussen Bartels, 75 years old. Haussen court was named after her father.

If Mrs. Bartels was puzzled, there was less vagueness among some of the property owners who have petitioned the city council to change the street's name. The petition is to be considered this week by the city council committee on streets and alleys, together with one signed by 1,567 owners of property in Pulaski road. The latter want the name of Crawford avenue restored. That's what Pulaski road was called before.

Rally to Hero of 1776.

Joseph A. Slupkowski, who lives at 3024 Haussen court, said frankly: "If we get the name Crawford avenue the business men on Pulaski road won't be able to change back to it."

And a woman living a few doors away said: "Why did I sign the petition? Just to keep those people on Pulaski road from getting back the name of Crawford avenue. Gen. Casimar Pulaski [revolutionary war hero for whom the street was named] died for this country. He was a hero."

Mike Pryzbylo, at 3078, said: "All I know is that I was called to a meeting in Democratic headquarters. Our fellows decided on it. So I signed."

But Mrs. Bartels doesn't understand this sort of logic. Haussen court it was when she was born there seventy-five years ago.

Father Gave Land for Street.

"My father, Fred Haussen, had 33 acres here before it was in the city," she said. "He and Charlie Kimball gave the land needed for the street. Mr. Kimball said it ought to be called Haussen court because Kimball avenue had been named after him."

Her husband, Robert Bartels, will defend the original street name. Active despite his 80 years, he claims signatures representing more than 40 per cent of the street frontage.

The 1,567 property owners on Pulaski road claim that business has fallen off since the name of their thoroughfare was changed. They haven't anything against Gen. Pulaski, but they want Crawford avenue back. said.

BABY'S ILLNESS SENDS COAST GUARD CUTTER 150 MILES TO SEA

Norfolk, Va., Sept. 25.—(AP)—A mother's anxiety for her ill infant daughter sent a coast guard cutter steaming 150 miles to sea today and interrupted the voyages of two passenger vessels.

A wireless informed the master of the Pan American, on its way from New York to Rio de Janeiro, that the little daughter of a passenger, identified only as Mrs. Craft, had become ill at home shortly after the vessel had put to sea. The Pan American asked the coast guard to send a vessel to take off the mother.

The cutter Dione, after going 150 miles to sea, learned later arrangements had been made by which Mrs. Craft was transferred from the Pan American 450 miles east of Cape Hatteras to the liner Queen of Bermuda, bound to New York. The cutter turned back to Norfolk.

THREATS OF WAR KEEP 26 RHODES SCHOLARS IN U. S.

Swarthmore, Pa., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Uneasiness in Europe, with its threat of war, has led the Rhodes trustees to suggest that the scholars elect postpone sailing for England until the international situation becomes clearer, it was announced here today by Dr. Frank Aydelotte, president of Swarthmore college and American secretary to the Rhodes trustees.

Thirty-two American scholars for this year were chosen last winter and six of them already have gone abroad.

Rare Orchid, with 3 Foot Petals, Found in Jungles

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 25.—(AP)—One of the world's rare mammoth orchids —an orange hued bloom with petals three feet long—has been added to the widely known collection of the Missouri Botanical gardens. Dr. Robert Everard Woodson Jr. found it in the Panama jungles, from which he just returned. The species, known as "Chinelas," has been found only three times in the last century, he said.

Fortress Rises Among Quiet Indiana Farms

It was last May when the residents of Hobart, Ind., [pop. 5,787] came to realize that there were strange doings in the countryside. Some one of great importance — certainly one of great wealth — had come among them.

Cross locates Superior Farms.

Large farms were being swiftly bought up for cash — cash in $1,000 bills. A total of $300,000 had been paid for land and $100,000 was being spent in modernizing five beautiful farm residences, and in barn and outbuilding renovation and reconstruction.

Track Laid Out.

New barns the size of Zeppelin hangars were being built. A half mile dirt track had been laid out and there were special stables for blooded horses and cattle.

Six foot cyclone fences topped with barbed wire inclosed the tract. A fortified empire had been created in the heart of Lake county—John Dillinger's favorite stamping ground. The owner, the people learned was a Mr. Carrozzo; a Mr. Michael Carrozzo, if you please.

It was something of a shock, however, when they found that their country gentleman was and is none other than the Carrozzo who has long been known as Dago Mike, Capone henchman and czar of the street laborers' council in Chicago. His name has been on many police blotters since 1916. Twice he was indicted for murder and often arrested for carrying concealed weapons, but he never was convicted on these charges.

Subject of Discussion.

Just why the king of the street sweepers chose the old Dillinger territory for his fortified estate—and it is fortified in the most modern manner—is a subject of much discussion both in Chicago and the Hobart countryside.

Carrozzo is wealthy, but those who know him doubt that he could have

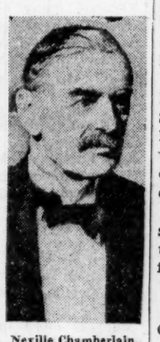
CZECHS AND FRENCH REJECT FUEHRER'S DEMANDS; ALLIES DRAFT NEW APPEAL

Call Paris War Chief to London After a Midnight Parley.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 26.—[Monday.]—Czechoslovakia has rejected Adolf Hitler's "final" ultimatum to hand over Sudetenland to Germany by next Saturday.



Neville Chamberlain.

British and French leaders today began eleventh hour efforts to avert war in Europe.

Czechoslovakia's rejection came while British and French statesmen were meeting last night to prepare a common course of action in the crisis.

The British cabinet met to consider Czechoslovakia's "No!" to Hitler demands shortly before midnight in its third session of the day. It broke up forty-five minutes later. No statement was issued.

Resume Parley Today.

Immediately thereafter Premier Edouard Daladier of France and his foreign minister, Georges Bonnet, met briefly with Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain of Great Britain and his foreign secretary, Viscount Halifax. It was announced the British and French will resume their discussions at 9 o'clock this morning.

Daladier upon leaving Chamberlain's official residence at No. 10 Downing street said: "Everything proceeded quite normally."

A joint declaration by the British and the French may be sent to Hitler today. It was believed the declaration would not only remind the German Fuehrer of the great risk in the conflict, but also appeal to him not to insist upon his "final" demands. The British and the French both believe the Nazi dictator's demands will mean certain war unless they are toned down.

Prepare for Consequences.

It was understood the London and Paris governments were "preparing for the consequences" should Hitler refuse to heed the appeal. There were indications that the British were beginning to side with the French that new pressure could not be applied to Czechoslovakia.

There were some indications that the Fuehrer is backing down and is seeking a way out that will save his face. This would mean returning to the first British-French plan. This was submitted Sept. 18 and called for the transfer of Sudeten areas having more than a 50 per cent German population, the adjustment of the new frontier by an international commission, and a seven nation guarantee of the inviolability of the new borders.

Six Important Developments.

While the British and French sought to save peace in Europe, there were six important developments:

FIRST—Disclosure that Hitler had attached a map to his ultimatum to Czechoslovakia. This map marked areas he demanded be delivered outright to Germany. The map shows that the new German frontier would come within twenty miles of Prague, the Czech capital.

SECOND—Unanimous agreement by the French cabinet that Hitler's demands were "unacceptable."

THIRD—A threat by Premier Mussolini of Italy that he would take military measures if other nations continue to mobilize their armies and navies.

FOURTH—Gen. Maurice Gustave Gamelin, chief of the general staf of France, will fly to London today to join Premier Daladier and perhaps join the discussions on Hitler's demands.

FIFTH—A possible meeting of British parliament tomorrow.

SIXTH—Hitler's decision to speak to the German nation tonight—a

GERMANS DEMAND SUDETEN AREAS, GUNS AND RADIOS

LONDON, Sept. 25.—(AP)—The text of the "final" memorandum of Chancellor Adolf Hitler of Germany, given Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain of Britain Friday for presentation to Czechoslovakia, as disclosed by authoritative sources in London, follows:

"Reports increasing in number from hour to hour regarding incidents in Sudetenland show that the situation has become completely intolerable for the Sudeten German people and in consequence dangerous to the peace of Europe.

"It is therefore essential that the separation of the Sudetenland agreed to by Czechoslovakia should be effected without any further delay.

Demanded Territory Outlined.

"On the attached map the Sudeten German area which is to be ceded is shaded in red. Areas in which a plebiscite also is to be held, over and above the areas to be occupied, are drawn in and shaded green.

"Final delimitation of the frontier must correspond to the wishes of those concerned. In order to determine these wishes, a certain period is necessary for the preparation of a plebiscite, during which disturbances must in all circumstances be prevented.

"A situation of parity must be created. The area designated on the attached map as German area is to be occupied by German troops without taking into account whether in a plebiscite they may prove to be in this or that part of an area with a Czech majority.

Czech Occupation Provided.

"On the other hand, Czech territory is to be occupied by Czech troops without taking into account whether in this area there lie large German language islands in which in a plebiscite a majority will without doubt give expression to its German national feeling.

"With a view to bringing about an immediate and final solution of the Sudeten German problem, the following proposals are submitted by the German government:

"1. Withdrawal of the whole Czech armed forces, police, gendarmerie, customs officials, and frontier guards from the area to be evacuated as designated on the attached map, this

Dictator Will Speak Today; Nazi Troops Move to Border.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 26 [Monday].—Reichsfuehrer Hitler will address his nation tonight at 8 p. m. [1 p. m. Central Standard time].

Adolf Hitler.

Germany is convinced that when he speaks from the Sports palace he will deliver the last word on war or peace for Europe.

Diplomats and politicians believe he merely will tell Germany about his negotiations with Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain of Great Britain and sound a last awe inspiring warning to Czechoslovakia.

Nation Told to Obey.

"The Fuehrer commands, we shall follow," the Voelkischer Beobachter said in a headline announcing Hitler's address. It called upon Germany to be ready "to make every sacrifice to fulfill Hitler's demands."

"The entire nation in single-minded unity will give its consent to everything the Fuehrer demands of us," the paper said. "For every one knows and is steeled in the conviction that the Fuehrer only demands what is best for the nation."

Aware of the tinge of skepticism with which the population greeted some of the government radio announcements, the official Nazi organ said that "people in Nazi Pan-Germany know that its leaders in the fateful hours of the nation always have stood before the people and informed them of their intentions and the steps which must be taken."

German troops yesterday began moving in greater numbers than in preceding weeks.

Conceal Regimental Numbers.

In the Rhineland, thousands of soldiers marched in the region of new underground fortifications with their regimental numbers and epaulettes concealed so as to make it impossible to establish where they came from. Troops were moved from Brandenburg to Saxony and Silesia. A great part of Germany's new automobile roads near Nuremberg and the Czech border were barred to the public but the Germans said troops were traveling on them.

For weeks—ever since the "trial mobilization" started—certain Germans named the dates on which Hitler would strike against Czechoslovakia "to liberate the Sudetens."

Mention "Der Tag."

Before Chamberlain's first visit with Hitler at Berchtesgaden the alarmists spoke of Sept. 26 or 27 as the fatal day. After it was announced that Hitler had given Czechoslovakia an ultimatum which expires next Saturday, the same alarmists said Sept. 29 [next Thursday], would be Der Tag because by then "the irresponsible leaders of Czechoslovakia lose their nerve and would attack Germany, compelling the Fuehrer to act."

Reports of these alleged decisive dates traveled by the grapevine route with lightning speed and the announcement of Hitler's intention to speak today keyed the population to a feverish pitch.

"The Poles and the Italians will be with us regardless of what happens," Germans exclaimed.

The Nazis intimated that they do not think much of them as allies.

"They are better than nothing," they said.

Expect Allies to Be Neutral.

Enthusiastic Nazis are convinced that England and France will remain neutral if war breaks out, but most of them trust that "the English will bring such pressure to bear on Prague that Czechoslovakia won't dare reject the Fuehrer's demands."

Circles close to the government are less confident.

"Chamberlain will try to wash his hands of the whole Czech matter and possibly use the present conflict as an excellent opportunity to introduce conscription which England has tried to avoid for years," they said.

In view of the size of Hitler's territorial demands in his latest ultimatum to Prague and his refusal to guarantee Czech borders, diplomatic circles expressed no surprise when the report spread in Berlin that Prague had informed London it would not accept the German demands. Consequently it is assumed that Hitler's speech will be a reply to the Czech rejection.

British Aid Stopped at Border.

The British military attaché who was entrusted with the delicate task of presenting the German ultimatum to Prague had a difficult trip to the capital of Czechoslovakia. Though he was traveling with a Czech officer he was stopped at the border and was delayed until additional credentials reached him.

Sir Nevile Henderson, the British ambassador, called at the foreign office yesterday afternoon while King Boris of Bulgaria was visiting Hitler.

Despite the tremendous military activity displayed by the Germans, many foreign observers maintain that Germany is not as well prepared for an armed conflict as she has been trying to make England and France believe.

Forts Not Satisfactory.

The fortifications which have been built at top speed in the Rhineland are by no means as satisfactory because the unskilled labor they used to a great extent did a comparatively poor job. In many cases rain washed out the concrete blocks that were used as foundations for the pill boxes.

Only the fortifications that were started immediately after the Germans reoccupied the Rhineland have met with the full approval of the German general staf.

Hitler knows this and therefore foreign diplomats in Berlin still hope that he may make concessions and alter a few details of his ultimatum to Czechoslovakia to enable the French and British to use their influence to compel Prague to accept Germany's wishes.

The German official press and radio insist that Hitler will not change his demands. They are telling the public that Hitler's ultimatum merely contains "technical suggestions on how the evacuation of the Sudetenland is to be carried out," and that it does not go beyond the plan agreed upon at Berchtesgaden.

Call Czech Radio Station Liar.

The Czech radio which has been flooding central Europe with the proclamations of the Czech government in eleven languages is denounced by the Germans as a "distributor of systematic lies."

A radio war is on in full blast. While the Germans and Poles published columns about the guerrilla warfare between Czechs and Poles and the advance of the Polish "free corps" into Czech territory, the Czech radio said no disturbances occurred on the Polish-Czech border.

German radio programs have ceased to list Czechoslovakia stations. Germany's leading weekly radio magazine announced that "in view of the never ending lying agitation of the Czech radio stations against everything that is German, we decline to further publish the programs of the Czechoslovak transmitters."

Americans Quit Berlin.

The German radio repeated its warning to Germans in Czechoslovakia to leave the country and listed trains that they may take.

A number of Americans residing in Berlin have sent their wives and children out of Germany within the past three days.

The English embassy has a list of all English citizens who plan to remain "until the last minute" and who will be taken along in the so-called "embassy train."

Reports of new Czech-German border clashes reached Berlin yesterday.

In the Machrisch-Ostrau district of Czechoslovakia, Czech soldiers were alleged to have taken cattle and live stock left behind by the fugitive Sudeten Germans. It was said the herds were driven to nearby towns to be used to feed soliders. It was further asserted that "Czech soldiers went from house to house ripping down radio antennas and confiscating radios."

WOUNDS FATAL TO GIRL SHIELD IN BOOKIE HOLDUP

Miss Lucille Summerfield, 18 years old, died early today of gunshot wounds in the American hospital, the third victim of an attempted robbery and gun battle in a handbook in the rear of 3633 North Halsted street last Thursday. She lived at 622 Patterson street.

She was in the handbook when three bandits raided it. One shot and killed John Jazula, the operator. Town Hall police appeared at that moment and the bandits came out fighting. One held Miss Summerfield as a shield.

In the battle resulting, she was shot in the left lung. James Gilfoy, an ex-convict who had used her as a shield, was killed. Two policemen were wounded, as was Charles Lane, an ex-convict, one of Gilfoy's companions. He and the third robber, William Wright, were captured.

Capt. Patrick O'Connell said last night that he believed Lane and the slain Gilfoy had a cache of some $50,000 in loot. Lane refused to talk about it. He said he has no desire to go back to prison as a squealer.

POLICEMAN SEES AN OLD FACE, BUT IT'S REFORMED

For the last five years Maurice Byrne has been a lieutenant of police. Before that he was a detective assigned to the capture of pickpockets. His friends boasted that he knew every pickpocket of importance in the country.

Yesterday the lieutenant reverted to type. He was near the Chicago Stadium, helping handle the crowd at the Czechoslovak rally, when he heard that pockets were being picked thereabouts. Looking around, he saw a familiar figure board a Madison street car. Leaping aboard, he arrested a small, inconspicuous man.

"This is a surprise," said the prisoner. "I haven't seen you in twelve years, lieutenant."

The lieutenant said that was right. His man is Jacob Levine, 51 years old. Levine said he lived at 3151 16th street and that he had long since reformed.

U. S. REFUGEES PICK CHICAGOAN AS PRAGUE HEAD

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Forty-four American citizens, fearful of crossing the frontier at Eger into Germany, returned to Prague tonight. They had heard reports that they would be placed in German concentration camps.

On the way back the Americans, many of whom are of Czech birth or descent, held a meeting and elected officers. They called themselves the American Refugee Group and named Milton Shufro of 5219 Harper avenue, Chicago, as president.

One of the refugees is a Texas cow puncher. The Czechs, though accustomed to colorful native costumes of their own, were fascinated by his ten gallon hat.

FRENCH CABINET FIRM IN BACKING CZECHS' REFUSAL

Hitler's Sudeten Demands Termed Unacceptable.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Sept. 26 [Monday].—Information in this confirmed evidences of Anglo-French solidarity in the face of Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's demands and the conviction that the "hour of resistance has come."

Gen. Gamelin.

One evidence of this was seen in reports that a wartime national union cabinet will be formed by the end of the week in Great Britain, to include former Premier Stanley Baldwin, now Earl Baldwin of Bewdley, and the outspoken anti-Nazi conservatives, Winston Churchill and Capt. Anthony Eden, former foreign secretary.

Army Chief Sent to London.

The French embassy announced that Gen. Maurice Gustave Gamelin, chief of the general staf of the French defense forces, will join Prime Minister Edouard Daladier in London today to join in the Anglo-French discussions of Hitler's demands.

Reports of unrest in the German army over Hitler's policy persisted in Paris. According to Genevieve Tabouis, well known commentator in L'Oeuvre, many officers have been arrested recently because of their hostility to Nazi party extremists.

Last night the French radio station at Nice, close to the Italian frontier, broadcast twice in Italian the text of Hitler's demands on Czechoslovakia and the Franco-British proposals of last Sunday.

Cabinet Rejects Terms.

Hitler's memorandum on the dismemberment of Czechoslovakia was discussed at a surprise meeting of the French cabinet yesterday afternoon, before Premier Daladier and Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet left for London to confer with Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain of Great Britain.

Sources close to the government reported that the cabinet decided unanimously to reject Hitler's latest demands and not to accept any terms going beyond the London agreement of Sept. 18.

It was believed the cabinet was called for the purpose of pinning down Daladier and Bonnet so Chamberlain would be unable to obtain a further weakening of the French position. That fitted in with the general stiffening attitude of the last two days and the virtual silence of the once active peace party.

Berchtesgaden Is Watchword.

THE TRIBUNE understood that Daladier and Bonnet would tell Chamberlain that the German memorandum is unacceptable and that they cannot go beyond the agreement reached at Berchtesgaden and confirmed in London. "Back to Berchtesgaden" is the French watchword now.

It was understood that the two features of the memorandum which the cabinet considered particularly impossible to accept were Hitler's refusal of a neutral frontier commission and his refusal to guarantee the inviolability of the new borders.

It was understood Daladier declared that if Germany invaded Czechoslovakia after Oct. 1 or before he would order a general mobilization in France.

French Take Strong Stand.

On the whole, the French position seemed uncompromising, and the chances for peace appeared to depend on whether Hitler is ready to pocket both his gains and his pride or whether he is determined to risk everything on defying the democracies.

The new hardening of the French government's attitude was ascribed mainly to attacks from the bitter-enders, some in Daladier's own party, who have been denouncing him for having "dishonored France, capitulated before the German bluff, and humiliated the nation."

REDS FIGHT FASCISTS AS 10,000 LONDONERS MILL ABOUT STREETS

LONDON, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Repeated clashes flared tonight between Fascists and communists in the biggest crowd to assemble in Whitehall street and Trafalgar Square since the Czechoslovak crisis developed.

An estimated 10,000 persons milled about in the great throng. Several persons were injured and 17 arrested. Police reinforcements were rushed from nearby Scotland Yard to aid the hard-pressed bobbies in keeping some semblance of order.

Women screamed, men shouted. There were indignant cries of "put those hands down; there is no Hitler here" when a Fascist parade swung past with arms raised in salute.

Downing street, where British and French ministers discussed Adolf Hitler's final terms to Czechoslovakia, was closed all day. A triple cordon of police guarded the entrance to the little street which runs off Whitehall.

area to be handed over to Germany on Oct. 1.

"2. Evacuated territory is to be handed over in its present condition. The German government agrees that plenipotentiary representatives of the Czech government and of the Czech army should be attached to headquarters of the German military forces to deal with details of modalities [methods of making effective] of the evacuation.

Demands Discharge of Germans.

"3. The Czech government to discharge at once all Sudeten Germans serving in the military forces or police anywhere in Czech state territory and permit them to return home.

"4. The Czech government to liberate all political prisoners of the German race.

"5. The German government agrees to permit a plebiscite to take place in those areas—to be more definitly defined—before Nov. 25 at the latest.

"The plebiscite itself will be carried out under control of an international commission. All persons who resided in the areas in question on Oct. 28, 1918, or who were born in those parts prior to this date, will be eligible to vote.

"A simple majority of all eligible male and female voters will determine the desire of the population to belong either to the German reich or the Czech state.

Withdrawal of Military.

"During the plebiscite both parties will withdraw their military forces out of the area to be defined more precisely. The date and duration will be settled mutually by the German and Czech governments.

"6. The German government proposes that an authoritative German-Czech commission should be set up to settle all further details.

"Appendix: The evacuated Sudeten German area is to be handed over without destroying or rendering unusable in any way the military, economic, or trafic establishments [plants]. These include ground organization of air service and all wireless stations.

"All economic and trafic materials, especially rolling stock of the railway system in the designated area, are to be handed over undamaged. The same applies to all utility services [gas works, power stations, etc.].

"Finally, no foodstuffs, goods, cattle, raw materials, etc., are to be moved."

PARLIAMENT HAS LAST WORD ON DECLARATION OF WAR, SAYS LE TEMPS

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Sept. 25.—Defining the constitutional position of France regarding a declaration of war, Le Temps published the following:

"It must be remembered that while in 1914 Germany declared war on France the situation is today entirely different, as it would be for France to declare war on Germany. We are not yet there and we cannot reach that point until the representatives of the French people shall have so decided.

"For while our democratic system has certain disadvantages, it has this advantage, that the last word in such a matter is always with parliament. Article IX of the constitutional law of 1875 lays down that the president of the republic cannot declare war without the previous assent of the two houses of parliament."

STOP MOBILIZING, IL DUCE WARNS FRANCE, ENGLAND

Italy Threatens to Take Military Measures.

VICENZA, Italy, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Premier Benito Mussolini today threatened to take military measures if other nations do not cease mobilizing men and warships.

Arrow points to Vicenza, where Mussolini spoke yesterday.

Still holding hope that a general war might be averted, Mussolini spoke briefly to a crowd massed here to cheer him on his tour of regions along Italy's German frontier.

It was his seventh talk since he reaffirmed the strength of the Rome-Berlin axis and declared last Sunday at Trieste that Italy's place "is already chosen."

Threatens Italian Measures.

"Up to now Italy has not taken the slightest measure of a military character," Il Duce said.

"But if others continue to recall reservists and mass on frontiers, and if others are concentrating their fleets, it is clear that Italy also will take measures."

The premier said he would speak again tomorrow in Verona.

Mussolini did not mention by name either France or Great Britain, both of which have taken emergency precautions, but it was believed his declaration was directed at them.

This week will be Europe's "Passion week," he said, but he indicated that a general war still could be avoided if other nations abandoned the "error," which, he said, was committed in the post-war peace treaties in creating an excessively large Czechoslovakia.

Mussolini declared it was "universally recognized by now" that in the peace treaties of 1919 "grave errors were committed."

"I recognized it beginning with 1921," he declared. "I beg of you, however, not to attribute prophetic qualities to me, because prophets do not belong to our race. It was easy from then on to foresee what is happening now.

Rectify Mistakes, Says Duce.

"Now, in the face of error, what should be done?" he asked. "Rectify it. To err is human, but to preserve an error is diabolical.

"Now they are not only reluctant to rectify that error which was committed in expanding Czechoslovakia immeasurably, but they wish to maintain this error. And for this the peoples of Europe should throw themselves against one another!

"Now, until proof to the contrary, I do not believe this, which would be one of the most tragic paradoxes in human history, can come about.

"However, men aware of their responsibilities cannot reject those theses which may appear most absurd."

Cites Nation's Strength.

Here Mussolini warned that Italy was about to take military measures to match those of other nations. He continued:

"The world has had proof of our resolution and determination. We conquered an empire not only by fighting against the Ethiopian army, trained and led by Europeans, but also by resisting economic siege decreed for us by fifty-two nations."

March to "Save Czechs" Meeting at Chicago Stadium

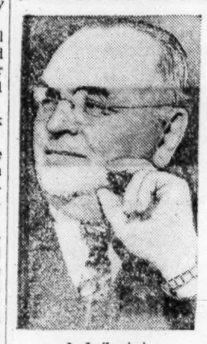
65,000 PROTEST HITLER'S THREAT TO CZECH NATION

Sixty-five thousand persons gathered in and near the Chicago Stadium yesterday to cheer predictions that Czechoslovakia will not fall victim to Nazi aggression. The meeting, arranged by several Czechoslovak societies of Chicago, was preceded by three parades in which several thousand, many in native costumes, participated.



J. J. Zmrhal.

By 2 p. m., an hour before the meeting was to begin, 30,000 persons filled the Stadium. When the speeches started, another 35,000 lined the streets nearby and listened through loud speakers. Many in the audience carried banners reading "Save Czechoslovakia."

Keynote of the meeting was the statement of Chairman J. J. Zmrhal, assistant superintendent of schools: "They shall not pass! It is the duty and privilege of every American to stand by Czechoslovakia. We back her to a man." Judge John Gutknecht declared: "The death of Czechoslovakia would be fatal to civilization." Congressman A. J. Sabath said he had faith in Europe's democracies to combat Hitler.

A telegram encouraging President Benes was sent to Prague. Messages also were sent to President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Cordell Hull asking that they "give voice to the indignation of the American nation" against Nazi invasion.

POLISH VETERANS EXPLAIN DEMAND FOR CZECH AREA

The Polish Army Veterans' association of Chicago has addressed to the American Legion a letter urging that fair consideration be given Poland in its demand for a slice of Czechoslovakian territory.

The association asserted that Teschen-Silesia was seized by the Czechs, although it was almost purely Polish, while the Poles were battling the bolsheviks on the Russian border. Thereafter, the veterans added, the Poles inside Czech borders were oppressed and denied their natural rights in school, church, and press.

"Poland has no hatred for the Czechoslovaks," the letter said. "It does not desire to see the dismemberment of another nation. It demands only what was taken from it by force eighteen years ago."

RUSSIA TO SEEK LEAGUE ACTION ON CZECH CRISIS

Plans to Put Pressure on France and Britain.

GENEVA, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Soviet Russia is determined to put pressure on Great Britain and France for Czechoslovakia's benefit through the league of nations, it was disclosed today.

Maxim Litvinov.

Maxim Litvinov, soviet commissar of foreign affairs, notified British officials that Russia would appeal to the league if London tries to make Czechoslovakia submit to any further concessions to Germany.

A Russian diplomat said the effect of such a move would be to force both Britain and France "to wash their diplomatic linen in public."

Such an appeal, the Russian said, would be under article 17 of the league convenant which says that "any war or threat of war" is "a matter of concern for the whole league."

The article also provides that the league "shall take any action that may be deemed wise and effectual to safeguard the peace of nations."

Litvinov, it was learned, paid a surprise call last night on Richard Austen Butler, British undersecretary of foreign affairs, at the latter's hotel.

Sources close to the British said Litvinov told Butler the soviet government was prepared to make the appeal with or without Prague's request for league action.

At one time the British themselves were reported to have considered using article 17 as a means of turning over Sudetenland to Germany to "safeguard the peace of nations."

Now, however, British sources indicated that unless the Germans resort to force the last thing British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain desires is to raise the Czechoslovak question before the league.

China also chose the week-end to disclose part of her diplomatic strategy. Her plans were aimed first at getting the league to ask its members to ban shipment of airplanes and oil to Japan.

43,000 CELLARS READY IN PARIS AS AIR DEFENSES

PARIS, Sept. 25.—(AP)—A forewarning of what war would bring to Paris was given today by Minister of State Albert Sarraut, who announced plans for the evacuation of Paris and for air raid defenses of the capital.

Persons leaving voluntarily would be granted the right of way to go at their own expense. When the voluntary movement had been completed, posters, press communiques, radio broadcasts, and loudspeaker announcements would start the official evacuation.

More than 150 sirens have been installed in Paris and suburbs ready to sound warnings of air raids, and 5,000 "chiefs of passive defense centers" have been named to handle crowds. Forty-three thousand cellars, in addition to subway stations and other public points, have been classified as suitable refuges.

More than 800 public buses were commandeered for tomorrow for use in transport of troops. This left Paris but two bus lines for ordinary transportation.

Sleeves have extra fullness at the top and taper gracefully to trim cuffs. This contributes to the illusion of breadth through the upper part of the body and slimness in the region of the hips.

This sketch illustrates the wider shoulders, slightly lower waistline and somewhat longer coat, which all help to add breadth of chest and apparent extra inches to the height of the wearer.

Here is illustrated the new high flexible armhole. This feature provides amazing freedom and comfort, and holds the collar and upper part of the coat in place without strain when arms are moved about or raised.

Truly modern clothes

Instead of hugging your body they drape gracefully from shoulders and hips, and retain their lines almost independently of the contours of your figure. They make short men seem taller, stout men seem slimmer and thin men more athletic at chest and shoulders. Yet they do it subtly, without exaggeration.

It takes a blend of very skillful designing and expert needlework to turn out these modern clothes, ready to wear—and no one does it quite so well as WALTER MORTON, Inc.

The illustrations suggest how it is done—but to really appreciate the remarkable improvement in your appearance these clothes will make it is necessary to try them on. And once you wear them you will never want to go back to any other kind.

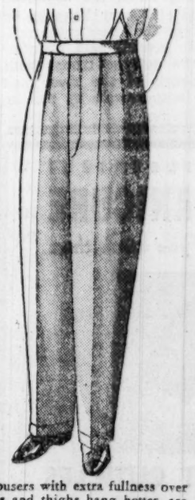
Another helpful contribution is made by a properly cut vest that "breaks" at the waist, accentuating the full chest effect and trimmer waistline, and seeming to flatten the abdomen.



Trousers with extra fullness over hips and thighs hang better, are much more comfortable. The pleats and higher waistband conceal the abdomen, and the trim taper toward the ankles adds to the wearer's apparent height.

Skillful designing makes possible a collar that sets very low yet remains in position. Such a collar shows more linen, seems to square the wearer's shoulders and again adds to the illusion of height.

SUDETEN 'TROOPS' ADVANCE; FACE ARMY OF CZECHS

Nazis Machine Gun Armored Cars of Enemy.

BULLETIN.

ASCH, Czechoslovakia, Sept. 26 [Monday].—(AP)—Sudeten Nazi Leader Konrad Henlein and 150 of his uniformed, steel helmeted Free Corps fighters crossed the border from Germany early today. He arrived at the first line held by his Free Corps troopers on the Asch-Eger highway at 9:25 a. m. He led his legionnaires to within three-quarters of a mile of Czechoslovak soldiers stationed at Ober Lohma. The return was Henlein's first openly since he fled a Czech government charge of treason Sept. 14. [He has said he returned secretly in disguise since then.]

ASCH, Czechoslovakia [near German Frontier], Sept. 25.—(AP)—The Sudeten German "army" today advanced its front line to within three-quarters of a mile of Czechoslovak army positions on the Asch-Eger highway. The advance was made in this finger of territory thrust into Germany outside Czech fortifications.

One man was reported wounded and a Czechoslovak armored car was put out of order by Sudeten machine gun fire as the two forces drew dangerously close together.

Two automobiles loaded with German and other foreign newspaper men were caught between the two lines this afternoon. The men escaped by running across open fields while their autos were shot to pieces.

The Sudetens pushed beyond the Asch "free district," which Czechoslovak forces did not attempt to occupy and moved into the Eger district less than fifteen miles away.

Control 20 Miles of Border.

Sudetens now occupy about sixteen miles along the main Asch-Eger highway and control about twenty miles of Czechoslovakia's farthest western frontier.

Unless the Czechoslovak forces withdraw the Sudetens cannot advance much further without coming to grips with the army.

Lines were drawn roughly from a position southwest of the Muelbach frontier post, which free corps men operating from the German side seized yesterday, through the hamlet of Reim.

The Czechoslovak army was again abreast of the German frontier, having completed occupation of Sudeten territory.

Celebrate "Freedom Day."

The Czechs were masters of all Sudetenland except for the Asch "free territory" and scattered frontier villages.

The Asch area today celebrated "freedom day" with a special postmark while girls and boys with tin boxes collected money to support the Sudeten Germans along the frontier.

The Prague government, probably for technical reasons, does not intend to challenge Asch's right to declare itself free from Czechoslovakia.

The district forms a narrow, bottleneck area where the German army—should it come—could easily trap the Czechoslovaks.

LOYALISTS TAKE FORTIFIED HILLS ON TERUEL FRONT

HENDAYE, France [at the Spanish Frontier], Sept. 25.—(AP)—The Spanish government today reported its troops had captured two fortified hills west of Manzanara, imperiling a rebel force in Teruel province.

An enveloping action, dispatches said, resulted in the successful storming of the hills near Puente de Caraballa, about eight miles south of the vital highway from Teruel to the sea.

British Cruisers in South America Told to Stand By

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Sept. 25.—The British cruisers Ajax and Exeter spent today in the outer harbor hurriedly taking on supplies for several weeks following receipt of admiralty orders to provision and stand by for further instructions. They were en route to make periodical courtesy visits to various Argentine ports on the Parana river when they received the orders.

25,000 WITNESS AMATEUR PILOTS' AIRPLANE SHOW

More than 25,000 spectators crowded Harlem airport, 87th street and Harlem avenue, yesterday to watch a thrilling show by amateur pilots and airplane sportsmen. Forty-eight pilots competed, and thirty-five planes were used. Not one mishap occurred.

Dewey Biggs and David Bishop, flying planes with engines of only 40 horse power, furnished thrills with demonstrations of loops, wing-overs, rolls, power spins, and so-called crazy flying. Oliver Tyler, Lawrence Anderson, Sherwood Orr, and Peter Olson won first prizes for accurate landing within a 40 foot ring. H. W. Graystone won a dummy bomb dropping event. All planes used were of 50 horse power or less.

One big thrill that the spectators missed was to be provided by Chauncey Spencer, colored, and Sidney Ruben. They were to make their first parachute jump. The pilot took them up 10,000 feet. Once there, however, they debated so long over which one was to jump first that when they finally leaped they were far from the airfield. Ruben landed on the western fringe of Marquette park and Spencer at 54th street and the Belt Line railroad.

JAP ARMY FIGHTS IN MUD TO CUT RAILS TO HANKOW

SHANGHAI, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Japanese columns north and south of the Yangtze river fought in rain and mud today in their efforts to cut key railways serving Hankow, Chinese military capital.

North of the river, Japanese reported their forces had followed up occupation of Loshan with a drive that took them west to a point less than 30 miles from Sinyang. Sinyang is 100 miles north of Hankow on the Peking-Hankow railway. Every civilian was reported to have fled from Sinyang to which Chinese were sending their wounded in springless carts.

South of the river, the Japanese were reported still near Yangsin, 60 miles east of the Hankow-Canton railway. Chinese reports said counterthrusts by the defense troops both north and south of the river had forced some withdrawals by the invaders.

CZECH REPUBLIC SPURNS HITLER'S 'FINAL' DEMAND

France and Britain Draft Course of Action.

Hitler's Terms Revealed.

It was disclosed that Hitler's ultimatum to Prague made the British-French offers appear insignificant.

He demanded immediate evacuation before Oct. 1 of all areas he considers more than half German. This takes in the entire "Czech Maginot line" and would leave the country practically disarmed and wide open on the western frontier.

The Czechs must leave their weapons behind, which means they would be virtually disarmed as most of the forces are concentrated within that area. The Germans would occupy the territory as soon as it is evacuated. This area was marked red on Hitler's map.

Though the Germans said that Hitler's memorandum merely was intended to carry out the British-French plan, it is actually a new plan, meaning the virtual end of Czechoslovakia if accepted.

Other Main Points.

Other main points are:

1. Plebiscites are demanded for all areas which Hitler considers doubtful. Germans alone have the right to decide those areas. Any with more than 50 per cent German vote become German. These areas were marked in green on Hitler's map.

2. Immediate discharge of all Germans from the armed forces, regardless of their personal desires and allow them to return home.

3. Release of all political prisoners of German race.

The proviso for immediate evacuation "in the present condition" means that the Czech peasant cannot so much as take his pigs or chickens out of the ceded area.

The demand that Germans alone are to delimit the areas means they must stick by Hitler's map, which is regarded here as a bit of gerrymandering. It would include areas with important factories, mines, and railways, and a small percentage of Czechs in neighboring German areas. The Germans farther away probably would outvote the Czechs in the immediate neighborhood and the whole business would become German.

Poles, Hungarians "Neglected."

Hitler did not mention the claims of the Hungarian and Polish minorities and what he would do about those, though he supposedly is sponsoring them. Neither does he mention any guarantee for the new Czech frontiers as was asked by the British and French.

Another is that he does not provide for letting anti-Nazi Germans leave the ceded areas.

The area for immediate cession, which carries the German frontier within twenty miles of Prague to the north, forms jaws of German territory around western Czechoslovakia with teeth only twenty miles apart at Brunn.

No Czech railway runs through the gap and it would be an easy matter to cut it in half.

New Mountain Defenses.

On the west, the new frontier is almost entirely inside the mountains which are a strong natural defense in themselves and form the basis of the Czech "Maginot defenses." The arms factory at Brunn would become German. Other vital works would be cut off by tongues of German territory cutting across railroad lines.

There would be three islands of German territory in the center of the country where plebiscites would be demanded.

The contrast with the British-French suggestions—which have been considered extremely generous—is striking.

Details of the British-French plan are:

1. Transfer without plebiscite of areas which are more than half German.

2. Adjustment of frontiers, carried out by an international commission with a Czech member.

3. Exchange of population where necessary; inhabitants would have a free choice within the time limit.

4. Other powers, including Britain, to give a general guarantee of the new Czech frontiers.

5. Powers to acknowledge that the Czechs have made a sacrifice in the interests of the peace of Europe.

See Ruin of Country.

The official view in Prague is that the country would be left defenseless from a military viewpoint, broken from a financial and economic viewpoint, and Germany, having achieved that much immediately could take the whole of the ruined country at will.

All details of the transfer, such as the question of money in banks in the transferred areas, railway rolling stock, kindred economical and financial questions would be decided under the German plan by a German-Czechoslovak commission. Germany refuses the right of intervention to any other power.

The conditions are considered harsher than anything imposed on Germany in the Versailles treaty. The view is that they amount to a complete crushing of Czechoslovakia.

DRIVE SUDETENS FROM TOWN; HOLD 100 AS HOSTAGES

Prague Troops Move to Crush Disorders.

BY ALEX SMALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

EGER [Cheb], Czechoslovakia, Sept. 25—Convincing evidence that the Czechoslovak government is tired of the Sudeten nonsense in anticipating anschluss [union] came today when gendarmes arrested more than 100 Sudeten leaders here.

Gen. Syrovy.

They will hold them as hostages for scores or perhaps hundreds of fellow gendarmes who were disarmed by Sudetens at Asch and elsewhere and sent over the border to Germany.

The Sudeten leader at Asch told THE TRIBUNE that his several hundred men, armed with weapons taken from Czech gendarmes whom they hustled into Germany, were holding the town hall.

Army Backs Arrests.

Eger gendarmes performed arrests with the backing of the army which the new premier, Gen. Jan Syrovy, ordered to advance into the rebellious areas.

The arrests followed the general mobilization order by less than 12 hours and were another indication of the stiffening of the government's attitude.

Observers who do not interpret the mobilization as a preliminary to war say it is due partly to the Sudeten excesses. These are considered to be unnecessary, and it is believed that if they are not checked they may be repeated in Polish, Hungarian, and other minority areas.

Provisional Mayor Seized.

Those arrested included the provisional mayor, Josef Reif, who admittedly was selected by the reich authorities, and all five members of the directorate. For one delirious day provisional officials took over Eger and other Sudeten centers, thereby sticking a barb into the harassed Czecheslovak people.

Among those arrested was Dr. Egret, who said yesterday of Czech feelings: "Didn't they humiliate us for 20 years?", and Dr. Karl Sturm, who had been scheduled to give THE TRIBUNE an interview.

The only official left in the lovely old city hall, which yesterday was swarming with swastika armbands and buzzing with Heil Hitlers, was Burgomaster Prokesch. For one day he had been replaced by the Nazi mayor, Reif.

Asked how it had happened that the Sudetens had been allowed to seize the town, he said: "What could you do? If I said anything I'd be a traitor in their eyes."

Then he telephoned repeatedly in an effort to obtain one of the two mayoral cars to take THE TRIBUNE correspondent around the Eger district. Meanwhile, he remarked wearily: "You know this house is somewhat historic. It was the private residence of the first mayor here. One of his guests was Gen. Wallenstein, the thirty years' war general, who later was murdered in what is now the swank Café Wallenstein in this town."

Finally the mayor got word from two municipal taxi drivers. Both offered excuses—one was a Sudetener who feared the Czech soldiery along the roads, the other a Sudeten socialist who feared the Sudeten Nazis.

Yes, the jumping horse got through the hoop neatly at Kishwaukee show. How, the horse, named Flash, only knows.

Between eight and ten thousand persons gathered yesterday at the Kishwaukee Valley farm, near Kirkland, of George W. Ault, De Kalb county banker with a hobby of raising pure bred horses.

They gathered to view a horse show in which 114 blooded horses, among them Lady Jane, the $30,000 champion mare, and grand champion Percheron and Suffolk stallions were entered. They divided $2,500 worth of trophies.

A ninety piece band from the 129th infantry and a forty-five piece band from Sycamore enlivened the day. The horse show was under the auspices of the Northern Illinois Horse Show association.

CZECHS SPURN TERMS

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Sept. 25.—The new German proposals, handed to the Prague government this morning, are not acceptable, it was learned tonight.

The proposals were said to impose conditions upon Czechoslovakia that could not be considered by any government. The memorandum containing them was presented to President Eduard Benes by Basil C. Newton, the British minister, and Victor Leopold de Lacroix, the French minister.

Meanwhile in an official broadcast tonight the government denied that its mobilization order had disturbed the negotiations between Chancellor Adolf Hitler and Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain.

Czechs Clear British, French.

The British prime minister, it was stated, realized that as soon as Hitler put forward his new conditions that neither the British nor the French governments would be in a position to recommend that Prague accept them.

Therefore, it was asserted, it was no longer possible to advise Czechoslovakia to remain passive and not to prepare her own defense.

"For this reason," the broadcast added, "the British and French minister last Friday informed our government on behalf of their own that neither Britain nor France could take the responsibility of any longer advising us to maintain a passive attitude. Neither could they recommend to us to abstain from making the necessary military preparations.

"At the same time they indicated that they were passing on the Godesberg memorandum but without offering any advice on it as to our further action. This implied that the great powers themselves did not consider that the new proposals were a reasonable basis."

The broadcast was made to contradict assertions made in German broadcasts.

Except for complete blackouts at night, Prague is almost normal by day. In the parks elderly men are digging trenches, and there is a noticeable absence of young men from the streets. The police—all elderly men—carry gas masks.

Affects all Citizens.

The mobilization proclamation was issued under the law for the defense of the state, calling on every citizen to contribute to security measures. This means that every citizen called to the colors, whether man or woman, is at the disposal of the authorities.

Persons employed in industrial or other concerns of national importance, agriculture, medical and hospital work, provision of foodstuffs and articles of prime necessity, can be called on to carry on their occupations indefinitly on pain of punishment.

Authorities also may transfer to other localities persons engaged in such work. The law also restricts liberty to dispose of certain forms of property such as private roads, carrier pigeons, houses and other buildings suitable for troop accommodations.

Many Foreigners Volunteer.

Great numbers of foreigners have volunteered for service in the Czechoslovak army, especially from Jugo-Slavia and Bulgaria.

The stafs of the American legation and consulate continue at their posts, and many members of the American colony are still here.

Practically the entire British colnly has left, on the advice of the British consul.

CZECHS CONSENT TO DISCUSSION OF POLISH DEMANDS

WARSAW, Sept. 25.—(AP)—The Czechoslovak government has informed the Polish legation in Prague that it will consent in principle to a discussion of Poland's territorial demands. This was reported today by the Polish Telegraph agency.

Last Wednesday Poland presented Czechoslovakia a demand for cession to Poland of Polish inhabited areas in Czechoslovakia.

Numerous clashes were reported, meanwhile, between Czechoslovaks and Poles in the Polish inhabited Teschen region of Czechoslovakia, just across the Polish border. The clashes were said to have been precipitated by Poles resisting Czechoslovakia's general mobilization order.

Join Army to Get Guns.

Some young Poles were reported to have answered the call to duty only to get possession of rifles and machine guns which they tried to run across the border into Poland.

Shooting broke out, but the number of casualties was not reported.

Polish refugees from Czechoslovakia reported that the Czechoslovak government had ordered Poles in three districts of Silesia to turn their radio sets over to the government within 24 hours.

These reports said a secret Polish broadcasting station had been appealing to Poles in Czechoslovakia to start an uprising against Prague.

Czech Territory Invaded.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 25.—The Polish "Free Corps" invaded Czech territory along the Czechoslovak-Polish border today, according to the official German news agency. They engaged in bitter fights with Czech troops, German official sources said.

The Germans declared that "the Polish revolutionaries are not only armed with carbines but also with machine guns and hand grenades." The agency added that six Poles were killed in skirmishes today.

Hungarian Corps Barred.
[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Sept. 25.—The government does not intend to allow the formation of a corps of of refugees from Czechoslovakia on refugees from Czechoslovakia on the line of the Henlein corps in Germany.

Severe aerial restrictions have been imposed. An airdrome may be approached only from the west by civilian planes, which must also leave in a westerly direction. Any plane flying over prohibited areas will be fired on.

A PUP MAKES GOOD

By CALEB

SNOOTY IS a pup, and so far as our fourth floor sections are concerned, a pedestrian pup. His plodding wooden legs and brightly painted body apparently house a stout heart, for Snooty has set a mark to shoot at here, and has become something of a local character in the toy section.

Snooty's lines are long and under-slung. He has short legs and flat feet that move in realistic patter when the string on his collar is pulled. With each step Snooty utters a rasping bark, in itself quite an achievement. He first came to the store about a month ago, and the first model of him was placed on a treadmill.

Snooty began the long grind, taking almost precisely two steps a second, barking softly with each step. His position in the center aisle made him a popular and interesting fellow, and he was simply left on his treadmill, plodding patiently and beguilingly from nowhere to nowhere. But, strangely enough, like many another plodder, Snooty has proved something rather important.

Taking his measured steps on the treadmill 120 times a minute, some forty hours a week, Snooty has gone on for more than a month so that today his record of steps totals no less than 1,394,400—and he shows no sign of weakening. Snooty through his determination and hard work has won a place in our esteem because he has amply demonstrated a possession that we insist upon in whatever we sell—Snooty has demonstrated quality.

Perhaps you had not thought of toys in connection with quality—but we always think of them so. The fact that Snooty has plodded on toward a million and a half steps without a breakdown or repair of any kind tells us a lot about his mechanism. Although at the outset it was not so intended, this experiment of ours has yielded some laboratory information impressive in the extreme. We're going to let Snooty stay on his treadmill until he gives up—or we do!

Our laboratory regularly tests materials and particularly fabrics to make certain that they meet our standards, but somehow Snooty, plodding steadily along, nose glued to the ground, eyes on the track ahead, is giving us a personal demonstration of dependability which no laboratory could improve upon and he appeals tremendously to our sense of humor.

RISE OF FORTIFIED CASTLE AMAZES INDIANA FARMERS

Carrozzo Builds Estate in Shower of $1,000 Bills.

laid out nearly half a million in cash at any one time in recent years. One report has it that the Carrozzo empire will be graced by no less a personage than Al Capone himself when he finishes a one year term in the county jail after his release from Alcatraz penitentiary next year.

It is said that Capone's friends, recalling the good fortune Dillinger enjoyed in Lake county, have long considered that district to be the safest possible haven for their leader in crime. Dillinger made his fabulous escape from the Lake county jail in Crown Point in 1934 to resume a life of outlawry.

Meanwhile, crews of workmen are renovating and fortifying Mr. Carrozzo's country place, which Mike named Superior farms. Wherever Mike goes on his preserves he is within sight of a number of hard faced, chunky little men. Some of them are beside him, others behind him and still others peer out from the shrubbery.

"My Secretaries," He Explains.

"My secretaries," Mr. Carrozzo explains to his neighbors. But from the many workmen on the farm the neighbors have learned that each of the secretaries carries a large bore pistol on his hip. None speaks English.

Carrozzo's appearance in the area was unheralded. He dropped in one day at the home of a farmer who was offering for $170,000 a 320 acre tract that had three residences on it and a number of barns. Mike laid down 145 $1,000 bills. It was a deal.

Then he bought four adjoining farms, bringing to 900 acres his total holdings. The empire is on U. S. highway No. 6 about fifty miles southeast of Chicago. Driving toward Superior Farms you roll along nearly a mile between the high fences—fences ordinarily seen only around penal institutions—before reaching the first group of buildings.

Barriers Block Gateway.

The gateway is blocked by heavy iron barriers. Behind them is a pretty white pillared farmhouse, roofed with green slate. About 200 yards to the south stands one of the largest barns in the central west—its length is about 300 feet. There are three enormous silos and many small buildings and sheds, all painted a dazzling white.

There are signs on the fence at regular intervals, warning against trespassing. "But they haven't had any trouble about trespassers since the folks heard about the secretaries," one native remarked.

Down the road is another pretty white house, with an even heavier fence around it. You are struck by the absolute bareness of the grounds. There are no trees behind which any one could take cover.

"They tell us," remarked the guide, "that Mike can throw electrical current into the fence. That's the Carrozzo residence, you know."

Garage Roof Fenced Off.

There are two other buildings in the enclosure. One is a garage. Even over its roof extends the heavy barricade fencing with mesh made of heavy, unyielding wire.

Down the road a little farther is a fine new stable of tan tile with a slate roof. Beyond the stable is the half mile dirt track.

There are two other groups of buildings, around which carpenters and tilesetters are still working.

"Mike has a lot of guests," remarked the guide. "In their riding clothes, the men and women guests are plenty tricky. But they say Mike is not so hot. He fell off his horse the other day."

EXPLODE KIDNAP HOAX DESIGNED TO BOOST UNION

Chicago police had some busy hours yesterday before they solved the mystery of the disappearance and supposed kidnaping of Jay J. Griffin of Detroit, Mich., president and organizer of the Society of Tool and Die Craftsmen.

Griffin disappeared a week ago from his Detroit home. On Saturday his wife received a telephone call from Chicago advising her that her husband was in trouble. Detectives Joseph Burbach, George Harding, and John Joyce traced the call to the Parkland hotel, 1550 East 63d street. They learned that Griffin had been stopping there under a fictitious name. More than a dozen places that he had called were watched. Finally, last night, Arthur Brown and Richard Murray of Detroit, members of the union, were arrested when they went to Griffin's hotel room.

About the time police learned that Griffin already had returned to Detroit, Brown admitted that the whole affair was a hoax—for publicity purposes. Griffin, it was learned, had been trying to organize a national labor federation to rival the American Federation of Labor and the Committee for Industrial Organization. Police had to release Brown and Murray when Detroit authorities said there were no charges against them. And they didn't wish Griffin's new union any success.

FIVE INSANE LIFE CONVICTS BREAK CHESTER PRISON

Saw Bars, Smash Roof Without Being Seen.

Chester, Ill., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Five dangerously insane life term convicts sawed their way out of the Menard division of the Illinois state penitentiary between last midnight and dawn today. No trace of them had been found late tonight.

Prison officials have no idea how long the convicts had been missing when their broken cells were found at 6:30 o'clock this morning. Neither do they know how their flight could have gone undetected for hours when all cells are supposed to be inspected every 20 minutes by guards throughout the night.

Three guards were on duty in the cell block at the time of the escape. Another was stationed in front of the building, on which a light shines at night. The escaping convicts sawed the two lower bars of two adjoining cells in the third tier, climbed to the top of the fourth tier, smashed a hole through the wood and slate roof, and made their way to the ground down a fire escape.

Three Sentenced from Chicago.

Three of the convicts were sentenced from Chicago, one from Peoria, and one from Bloomington. All are considered to be dangerously insane and all were sent to prison for crimes of violence, two for murder and three for armed robbery. They are:

MATTHEW NOWAK, 29 years old, sentenced to 100 years imprisonment on Aug. 14, 1933, at Chicago, for the murder of Dr. Bernard F. Garnitz, 5159 South Damen avenue, lured by a fake telephone call to attend a dying patient and shot to death in a holdup.

JOHN BARTS, 35 years old, sentenced to life in prison as an habitual criminal in 1931 after he and an accomplice held up the Oak Lawn Trust and Savings bank in Chicago and wounded Policeman Martin O'Brien. He was first sent to prison for robbery in 1916, escaped from Chester prison in 1920 while serving a second sentence, and was recaptured and paroled in 1925.

CHARLES CLAYTON, 22 years old, sentenced to one year to life in Chicago on Feb. 28, 1934, for robbery.

WALTER BROWN, 26 years old, of Normal, sentenced from Bloomington on July 9, 1933, to life imprisonment for the murder of a McLean county deputy sheriff.

ROBERT STILLEY, 37 years old, sentenced in November, 1937, from Peoria to one year to life for robbery when armed.

Cell Block Built in 1860.

The building from which the five escaped is known as the north cell block. It was built in 1860 and is used as a psychiatric ward. The block houses 444 prisoners, four to a cell. When the five escaped they left one prisoner in one cell and two in the other.

Joseph Ragan, state superintendent of prisons, arrived here late tonight to get out without detection or how they failed to hear the sawing or the smashing of a hole in the roof. One suggestion was that the convicts used the hour between 8 and 9 o'clock p. m., when a radio program was being heard, to cover the sawing of the bars.

How the five obtained saws and tools also is a mystery. Prisoners in the psychiatric ward do no work, except cleaning and never are permitted outside the building. Considerable construction has been going on at the Menard division for some time, but prison officials could not explain how the prisoners might have been in contact with workmen.

Deputy Warden Browning Robinson was in charge of the prison last night and directed search for the fugitives today. Warden Joe E. Montgomery is ill and only last night had returned from a hospital to his prison residence.

Robs Dozen Physicians.

Robinson would not say tonight whether disciplinary action had been taken against the guard who was supposed to have checked the third tier from which the five escaped, or against all guards who were in the cell block. The guard was changed at 11:30 p. m.

Nowak was a member of a Chicago gang that specialized in robbing physicians they lured to secluded places by fake calls. They had robbed a dozen or more physicians before they called Dr. Garnitz in February, 1933, and told him a dying woman needed his services. When he resisted their attempt to rob him they shot him to death.

Escapes from the Menard division are said to be more frequent than from other state prisons, but officials said the convicts seldom get far away before they are captured. Basil Banghart, the Touhy gangster, escaped from Menard in 1935. He later was captured and is confined in Joliet prison. Paul Harrison, the maniacal hammer slayer of three men and a woman in Chicago, who escaped from custody this year, was not held at Menard, but at the state security hospital near here.

GIANT AIRLINER EXCEEDS HOPES, ENGINEER SAYS

Ship to Carry 42 Meets Test Demands.

Santa Monica, Cal., Sept. 25.—(AP)—The giant 42 passenger Douglas DC-4 airliner in 46 test flights has exceeded the predictions of its designers, Arthur E. Raymond, vice president and chief engineer of the Douglas Aircraft corporation, announced today.

Arthur E. Raymond.

The sky leviathan was built to the order of five major airlines, United, TWA, American, Pan-American, and Eastern, at a cost of nearly $2,000,000.

Exceeds 240 Miles.

"The guaranteed high speed of 240 miles an hour was exceeded by a comfortable margin," said Raymond. "On four engines, during 'sawtooth' climbs, the plane rose above 25,000 feet with a full load. Its rate of climb was over 1,000 feet a minute at 8,000 feet.

"On three engines, in similar tests, the plane reached a ceiling of 20,000 feet and had a rate of climb of 580 feet a minute at 8,000 feet.

"On two of its four engines—both power plants out of action on one side—the DC-4 went through its saw-tooth climb with flying colors. Instead of a guaranteed ceiling of 9,400 feet, the sky giant reached 11,000.

Takes Off in 1,050 Feet.

"The take-off and landing distances were equally sensational. With 61,200 pounds on board, the DC-4 took off in 1,050 feet.

"To date 46 separate flights have been made by the DC-4 under varying conditions, loads and flight requirements. These included climbs, stalls, banks, load and control tests, altitude, fuel consumption and take-offs and landings with center of gravity changed fore and aft."

The plane is 139 feet, 3 inches, from tip to tip; 97 feet long, and has 5,600 horsepower for takeoff. Production models will include supercharged cabins for sup-stratosphere flying, it was announced.

422 HURRICANE DEAD IDENTIFIED IN NEW ENGLAND

Boston, Mass., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Sightseers were barred from the devastated areas of New England today when state and relief officials continued their survey of last week's hurricane, flood, and wave damage. Revised estimates of the damage set the total at more than 200 million dollars in New England alone. Identified dead totaled 422 and at least 200 more were known to be dead.

Two hundred and thirteen bodies have been identified in Rhode Island and Gov. Robert E. Quinn places the damage at 100 million dollars. In the six states 12,650 families have lost heavily. A relief conference of governors of the stricken states will be held here tomorrow, at which the government will be asked for 71 million dollars for rehabilitation.

At Providence, R. I., President Henry M. Wriston of Brown university said the college would be opened officially Wednesday.

NEW CALIFORNIA UTOPIAN SCHEME BIG STATE ISSUE

$30 Every Thursday Plan Up to Voters.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Once more the celebrated California climate has produced a Utopian pension and recovery scheme that is running riot in the political vineyard.

Robert Noble.

Rivaling in popularity Upton Sinclair's EPIC [End Poverty in California] which was rejected by the voters in 1934 and the Townsend old age revolving pensions [$200 a month], which started in California and is now flourishing nationally with new vigor, the California retirement life payments project [$30 every Thursday] has upset political calculations, given California business a fit of the jitters and inspired half a million oldsters and millions of youngsters with dreams of happy days.

Idea Comes from Austria.

The seed of this latest panacea came from Austria where a similar plan flowered. It was sown in California soil last year by one Robert Noble, who in radio lectures enlarged upon a project to pay every Californian past 50 years of age $25 every Monday. Lawrence Allen, a Hollywood lawyer; his brother Willis and two score friends adopted and developed the plan into its present form.

With the battle cry of "Ham and Eggs for Californians," 450,000 persons signed the petition that placed the plan on the November ballot as an initiated amendment to the state constitution. If it receives a majority vote it will become a law at once and within three months the state will be issuing to every person over 50 $30 in scrip every week.

By the August primary the $30 a week campaign organization claimed it had 175,000 supporters paying one cent a day for campaign expenses. It had 4,000 workers in the field, including 100 trained speakers holding 25 meetings nightly and employing eight radio broadcasting stations. The committee says it soon will have 250,000 workers in the field rounding up votes.

Condemned by Republicans.

The newest Utopia played havoc in the Democratic primary. Its champion, Sheridan Downey, won the Democratic nomination for United States senator over Senator William G. McAdoo, who had asserted that the schemes would ruin California. Likewise the $30 a weekers compassed the nomination of Culbert L. Olson as Democratic candidate for governor, though he is pussyfooting on the proposition now.

All the Republican candidates and the Republican platform condemn the plan as visionary and ruinous. The Democrats omitted all reference to it from their platform after procuring a face saving letter from the managers of the movement stating that the plan is nonpolitical and should not be the subject of party pronouncement. The Democrats, however, are linked with the project and will sink or swim together.

Under the terms of the scheme the state would issue $30 of retirement compensation warants every week to every Californian 50 years of age or more who is neither an employer nor an employé. The warants would be issued in $1 denominations. Every Thursday the holder of a warant would be required to validate it by attaching a 2 cent "redemption stamp" purchased in United States money at state pension depots.

At the end of a year each warant so validated would bear $1.04 in stamps, evidencing the payment of that amount of money into the state treasury and would be redeemable at the state treasury for $1 in United States money. The warant so redeemed would go out of existence and the 4 cents profit would go to pay administration expenses.

During the year of its life the warant would be used as money within California among all who would accept it. The state would be required to accept properly stamped warants at face value for taxes and other obligations of the individual to the state. Political subdivisions of the state and publicly owned utilities would be compelled to accept them. State employés and contractors on state work would be required to accept them and pay up to 50 per cent of the amount due them.

Uproarious Argument for Weeks.

For weeks an uproarious argument on the merits of the scheme has been raging. Its proponents paint in alluring colors the picture of the increased wealth and purchasing power that will be produced. Its opponents portray the eventual crash of an unworkable contraption for pulling yourself up by your own bootstraps and the consequent ruin of the state's economic structure.

In its official argument accompanying the initiative petition the campaign committee for the $30 a week plan says: "Since real wealth will be approximately doubled by the warant system, inflation in prices will not occur. Inflation is purchasing power in excess of production of goods. "'Warants' will be evenly distributed to 500,000 people weekly."

The officially filed argument of the opponents says: "Any value which the warants might represent would result from a corresponding burden on our economic resources. Values cannot be created out of thin air. These warants could not circulate in private business transactions. There are at least 500,000 individuals who would qualify to receive warants. This would result after one year in 780 million dollars of warants being constantly outstanding.

"If the warants were to be usable it would be necessary for this amount to change hands each week. over 40 billion dollars per year. The total income of the people of the United States is only 80 billion dollars per year."

THE MASSACRE

More than 98% of the city's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway.

FATHER IS KILLED AND SON INJURED ON RAIL CROSSING

A father was killed and his son probably fatally injured yesterday when their automobile was struck by a Milwaukee railroad freight train in Hampshire, Kane county.

The father was Bert A. Struck, 56 years old, a Burlington township farmer. His son, Percy, 16, was driving. He had waited for one freight train to pass and then, apparently not seeing a second approaching on parallel tracks, drove into its path. The car was thrown against the side of the station 100 feet away.

Gustave L. Sword, 34 years old, 4422 North New England avenue, was killed last night when he drove his automobile head-on into another car in the 6600 block on Montrose avenue. Rudolph and Mrs. Minnie Schlottmann, 4114 North Odell avenue, the occupants of the other car, were only shaken up.

The body of a man found in front of 411 North La Salle street Friday night, apparently a hit-run victim, was identified yesterday as that of Henry Schmitt, 65, of 538 North Wells street.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 591 persons were killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 455 were killed in Chicago, where 14,361 were injured in the same period.

SIKORA TO ASK DELAY IN TRIAL FOR SLAYING WIFE'S SWEETHEART

A continuance in the trial of Rudolph Sikora, who killed his wife's sweetheart, will be sought today when he is called before Judge James Fardy. Attorney W. W. Smith, representing Sikora, said yesterday he will ask a delay until the middle of October to prepare a more complete defense.

Margaret Sikora.

Sikora shot Edward Solomon on Aug. 22 across the street from Solomon's home at 1436 Winnemac avenue. Sikora told police later: "It was the only thing left to do." His wife, Margaret, said she was in love with Solomon, her fellow employé in an accountant's office, and wanted to divorce Sikora. She vowed never to return to her husband, but has visited him several times in the county jail.

BUS DRIVERS GET INCREASE.

East St. Louis, Ill., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—East St. Louis bus drivers early today voted to accept a 5 cent an hour wage increase to 75 cents an hour, offered by East St. Louis City Line, Inc. The settlement was effected by arbitration which followed a strike vote on Sept. 8.

Bids Her Friends Good-by; Injured by Auto Door; Dies

Mrs. Della Daly, 77 years old, of Fox Lake, died yesterday in the Lake County General hospital, Waukegan, of injuries suffered Friday in an unusual accident. She was standing in front of her home, bidding good-by to friends who were driving away, when a door handle on the automobile's door caught in her coat. She was hurled to the ground and both her hips were broken.

"YOUR TEETH ARE FALSE"?

HALF-CLEAN with brushing

PALS.

Mr. Hines continues to be general agent for the New Deal in Manhattan in spite of the evidence showing him to be the associate and protector of crooks and thugs. A New Deal judge halted the trial of this leader of the New Deal Tammany after sufficient evidence had been introduced to satisfy any one that Hines was a pal of racketeers. Judge Pecora wouldn't let the jury decide whether Hines was guilty of the crimes with which he was charged, but by the time the juror was withdrawn nobody could have had much doubt about the kind of friends he does business with. And, as was observed before, he is still the New Deal's top man in Manhattan.

A TVA employé who ventured to testify before the congressional inquiry has now been fired. He had told the committee that he and his fellow employés had been forbidden to communicate with Arthur Morgan while the investigation was on.

Gov. McNutt turned Dillinger loose in Indiana, though Dillinger had a record of attempted escapes to indicate how dangerous a man he was. McNutt was given one of the New Deal's patronage prizes, the governorship of the Philippines, and continues to be recognized by the New Dealers in Washington as their pro-consul for Indiana. In McNutt's absence his office boy, Senator Minton, takes care of the routine chores. McNutt, the eminent Hoosier New Dealer, is the best friend Dillinger ever had.

Vice and crime in Minnesota for years have enjoyed protection, and through those years New Dealers have been in the saddle. Two editors who sought to expose the corrupt relations between the gangsters and the policitians have been murdered and no one has been punished for either of the killings. Vice and crime continue to flourish in Minneapolis and St. Paul under the administration of Gov. Benson, a New Deal favorite, just as gangdom flourished under Mr. Benson's predecessor, Gov. Olson. Yet Olson was so highly regarded by the New Deal that Democratic opposition to his Farmer-Labor party was withdrawn. The New Dealers sold their own party down the river for his sake.

In Rhode Island the New Deal governor used the militia to gain control of a horse race track and its gambling and patronage appurtenances. In Pennsylvania some very curious evidence has been presented about New Deal Gov. Earle's personal finances and the state's purchases. It seems to be admitted that the governor received a $26,000 loan from a contractor who got the state's business. Testimony before a legislative committee friendly to the governor tells of percentages taken on architectural fees, truck purchases, etc.

A man may be judged by his friends and a cause by its leaders. The leaders of the New Deal are the friends of boodlers and thugs. Millions of voters have been duped by the toplofty tone of the administration spokesmen in Washington to believe that goodness and piety are the exclusive possession of the altruists who now rule the country. It is difficult to believe that in the face of the record this delusion will survive much longer.

LADIES' HOSE AND HISTORY.

Mix 14.8 parts of cadaverine, which is one thing that's not pleasant to smell, with 29.3 parts of sebacic acid, and 44 parts of mixed xylenols. You have a substance which historians of the future may find caused Japan to lose in Delaware all the dreams of empire she pursued in China.

This mixture of a bad odor, an acid derived from castor oil and organic solvents, yields an artificial silk. It was patented recently in the name of the late W. H. Carothers, chemist for the du Pont company. It is possible that it may have as revolutionary an effect on world trade as did the artificial dyes which ruined the indigo planters or the fixation of atmospheric nitrogen which broke Chile's virtual monopoly of nitrates.

The United States is Japan's best customer, aside from her controled territories. Our largest import from Japan is silk, which is her biggest cash crop. We buy silk principally because American women won't wear rayon or cotton stockings.

Artificial fibers have made a dent in the silk market in the fields of other fabrics for women's clothing. They haven't got to first base in the hosiery field because chemical fibers lack the elasticity of silk or wool. They bag instead of snapping back into shape when they are washed, and no woman will wear baggy stockings if she can scrape together the price of silk. Observation indicates that most of them can.

But the new fiber has a greater elasticity and tensile strength than silk. It is also possible to treat it to reduce or destroy its luster. That is another defect of rayon stockings. The girls like these shiny textures of artificial fibers on their backs but not on their legs.

There is usually a long road between a patent and mass production. Officials of the du Pont company are not talking about their new fabric. It is believed to be more expensive to produce than rayon. All artificial products are not as cheap as the natural substances they replace. American chemists have made an artificial rubber superior in some respects to natural rubber, but it does not compete as yet on a price basis.

So the Japanese silk growers may have a breathing spell left. American cotton planters will be thankful for that. Japan is our best customer for cotton. If she can't sell us silk to pay for it she may have to shop elsewhere.

INDUSTRIAL CONSCRIPTION.

When the threat of war became acute on Saturday the price of wheat in Liverpool rose more than 7 cents a bushel and corresponding increases were reported in the exporting countries, including our own.

Some people, reading this news, will say that here is another evidence to prove that the war profiteers are at work again. The speculators are cleaning up. But to say that is to tell only a part of the story and not by any means the most important part of it.

The price of wheat rose in Liverpool because an increase in the price is the only sure way which men have of assuring themselves an adequate supply. The only other way to get more of a desired commodity is the method of coercion, including theft. That is the method that Lenin and Stalin tried in Russia and it didn't work. Instead of producing more it produced less, and the consequence was appalling famine in which millions died of starvation. The price of food goes up in wartime not so much because the profiteers see a chance to get rich as because the national governments know that by paying more they will encourage farmers to work harder. Precisely the same principle leads to higher prices for manufactured goods.

The American Legion at its convention in Los Angeles last week was under pressure to adopt a resolution asking congress to conscript factories and farms precisely as it conscripts men. The legislative committee of the Legion wisely opposed this scheme on the ground that it would set up dictatorial powers in the national government the moment war was declared. Communism could be imposed on the nation by fomenting a little war. In the end a resolution was adopted which affirms that all the national resources in men and material should be placed at the service of the government in wartime, but leaves congress to decide the question of how these resources shall be utilized.

The compromise is surely better than the proposal of the radicals, but it still leaves much to be desired. War profiteering is one of the ugly aspects of war, but defeat is uglier. An industrial conscription which would make for industrial inefficiency by placing professional soldiers, untrained in industrial management, in command of factories would go far to assure defeat by assuring inadequate supplies for the armed forces of the nation. At the same time the stimulus of high prices to production would be lost.

The communists in this country have been trying for years to sell their idea of farm and factory conscription to the Legion. The argument sounds plausible and it naturally has a wide appeal among men who risked their lives for their country for $30 a month. Those back home, it is said, who do not undergo the danger ought to be willing to make the same kind of financial sacrifice. The proposal is certainly not inequitable, but it is impractical. If it resulted, as it must be expected to, in inadequate supplies of food, ammunition, uniforms, and guns at the front the men in the trenches would have no reason to rejoice.

CHEATED OUT OF AN HOUR.

Four million people, residents of Chicago and neighboring towns in this region, suffered a misfortune yesterday. They had the sun, gleaming and golden in this approach to Indian summer, taken away from them an hour before it was necessary. They were robbed of an hour of daylight and were left in exchange an hour in the morning between 5:30 and 6:30 o'clock; a merely constructive, unneeded, and useless hour for most of the inhabitants of the city and its suburban areas.

Whatever may be thought of year around daylight saving—it satisfies the people of the whole state of Michigan just to the east of us—there can be no sound differences of opinion as to the priceless value of the extra hour of evening sun and daytime as a benefaction to our people for the period until Nov. 1; indeed, until Thanksgiving. Shortsighted agitators against this reasonable extension of the daylight saving period for Chicago are no friends of the health and joy of its citizens who today and for succeeding weeks may take note of what we might have, but are deprived of, in afternoon sunlight. It is no theoretical misfortune that has befallen us today—it is real.

The minimum of daylight saving for Chicago should be April 1 to Nov. 1. A longer stretch of it would be better.

BUNYAN'S INSPIRING PILGRIM.

[Danville (Ill.) Commercial-News.]

Recent observance of the 250th anniversary of the death of John Bunyan, author of "Pilgrim's Progress," had a special and timely meaning for all in the world today who are being persecuted for righteousness' sake. His story, with its example of courage in the face of tyranny, might well have been repeated in the concentration camps of Germany, where religious leaders are languishing for putting their consciences ahead of the state; in Russia, where religious faith is a subject of mockery; in all the war torn lands of the world where simple morality is shackled by might.

It should be recalled again that John Bunyan wrote his imperishable story of a triumphant human spirit while in prison. For twelve years he was continuously behind bars—for preaching. He was released and immediately began again to preach, and again went to prison. Under the Cavalier law of the time it was permissible to preach only the doctrins of the established church. Bunyan insisted on preaching according to his own light, directly from the Bible.

Conditions of Bunyan's time were not precisely parallel to those in the totalitarian countries of today, where religious practice is being suppressed or rigorously regimented according to a state formula. The conflict of that time was not so much between religion and irreligion as it was between forms of practice of religion. Nevertheless, in essence this conflict involved freedom of conscience and the right of every person to worship as he pleased. It was the conflict that drove the Pilgrim Fathers and other nonconformist groups of various lands to America.

And the story that John Bunyan wrote, growing out of this conflict, is the immortal textbook for all who suffer as he did. The story of Christian and Faithful, chained and beaten, tried by Lord Hategood, testified against by Envy and Superstition, branded as heretics by Mr. Blindman, found guilty and sentenced to death because their enemies "hated the very sight" of them—this is a story to be read and pondered today wherever hatred and intolerance are in the saddle and conscience is on the scaffold.

After more than 250 years and after the printing of countless thousands of copies—in the United States alone 20,000 are sold every year—Bunyan's Pilgrim is still struggling on from the Slough of Despond up Hill Difficulty.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U.S. Pat. Office

SHE'S NOT BURIED THERE.

At the Chicago first night of "Golden Boy," Contrib James Doheny found on the arm of his seat at the Harris theater [row E, section 2, seat 1] a German silver plate bearing the name of Helen Menken, the actress, and he wants to know how come. Here is Gertrude Bromberg [public relations, Harris, Selwyn, Grand] telling him:

The plate bearing the name of Helen Menken is the last of fifteen or more that were placed in the Harris theater when the Dramatic League of Chicago, former rival subscription organization to the Theater guild, moved its plays there in 1930. When the Dramatic league was organized the directors thought it would be a worth while idea to sell subscriptions to the various stars who came to Chicago in plays, and then to turn over these subscriptions to dramatic schools to be given to students who were not able to afford theater tickets. As each star purchased a subscription, his or her name was put on a plate fastened to the armrest of the seat purchased, to remain during the entire season.

Among the stars who purchased these season tickets were Katharine Cornell, Helen Hayes, Helen Menken, Ethel Barrymore, Grace George, George M. Cohan, Judith Anderson, and Frank Morgan. When the Dramatic league joined with the Theater guild, the honorary subscriptions were discontinued, and, it was thought, all of the plates removed. Apparently Miss Menken's was overlooked.

Postscript to Poetry Day.

I enjoyed very much your refreshing innovation, "Poetry Day." I opine you are the first conductor [of Lines] to lift poetry from its Cinderella rating to belles-lettres, where it belongs.

. . . The "Windowsill Rhapsody" was a little jewel in a velvet box. "Appeal to Diana," one of the most exquisite poems I've ever read, and I've read as well as reviewed quite a few poetries. [How about "poetries" for a new word? I've just invented it. Rawther neat, what?]

NEW SALEM.

(New Salem, Ill., one of the Lincoln shrines, now restored, was the scene of Lincoln's life from 1831 to 1837.)

I walked New Salem's storied street
As one walks through a shrine
Where incense wafts wondrously sweet
Among the things divine!

A century's hush lay all around
And in the stillness there
As one who treads on holy ground
I trod that thoroughfare!

Without the aid of ear or eye
I saw serene and clear
The mighty youth of years gone by
Who laughed and labored here!

I heard the romance of his heart,
The tender tragedy of tears,
The pathos that is now a part
Of all the precious years!

The old songs of the Sangamon,
The prairies' priceless page,
Poured out a ceaseless anthem on
The hero of the age!

RETURN FROM THE HILLS.

I shall remember hills that lift above
A scalloped sea, emerging from white mist
Like floating islands, clear and heaven-kissed.
I shall remember hills like a lost love
Thinking: ah, so they looked in storm, and so,
Green fold on fold, they slumbered in the sun,
Here dimpled into hollows, and here won
To pinnacles of dawn and sunset glow!

Who has been intimate with hills and grown
Familiar with their green, capricious ways,
And loved their secret heights' austerity,
Will have a dream of beauty all his own.
And far upon the plains, through all my days,
I shall remember hills above the sea.

Natalie Flohr.

Rest from Growing.

The garden is taking its siesta. It lies around, unkempt and blissfully content. Grasses go to seed in the rows and sprawl across the paths in a tough network. White moths flutter from row to row with the soporific effect of nurses putting the wards to sleep. Asters appear in the borders and a neighbor's bonfire spreads a gentle haze. The tattered cornstalks, at ease, nod over a good job done. They slouch, reach for the tobacco pouch, would smoke a pipe. The staked tomato vines are woefully like John Huss. No longer on dress parade, and with plenty of elbow room, all vines wander about sociably, cucumbers in the corn, squash and tomatoes gossiping together. The sprawling grape arbor is full of bees and white moths and the smell of the ripening clusters under the tangle of lower leaves, bright orange berries of the valley lilies gleam like fruit. In the corn rows several visiting cardinals linger, feeding happily. No one hurries and no busybody disturbs the peace.

S'Amuser.

RELUCTANT EXIT.

Delightful languor lingers in these days;
Of spring's impetuous urge there is no trace.
Shorn fields and fens and solitary ways
Show touches of departing summer's grace.
With lavish hand and courtly gesture she
Dispenses freely, fully her largesse;
But to the woods she gives with rapturous glee
Their gold and scarlet robes of loveliness.

Shakespeare can always be counted on for help in a literary extremity, so we'll let him say it this time:

"All's well that ends well."

WHEN LEG VEINS BREAK DOWN.

WE would encounter little difficulty with the veins of the legs were we not obliged to stand upright. A bending or stooping position, or getting about on all fours, would relieve these tubes of much strain. In addition, muscle action would force the current onward more expeditiously and blood would be far less likely to stagnate in these passageways. We can lay most of our trouble with varicose veins, then, to the fact that we do not walk upon our hands and feet.

Since we are doomed to the erect posture, many do numberless things which bring on tortuous conduits in the extremities. For example, any increase in the abdominal pressure will interfere temporarily with the progress of the circulating fluid toward the heart. Thus heavy lifting, persisting coughing, or straining at stool results in a firm contraction of the abdominal muscles which, in turn, so compresses the large vessels that the flow within them is stopped. Now nature apparently foresaw this possibility and, as a method of guarding against a backing up, established valves along these channels which prevent a column of blood, once raised, from dropping to a lower level.

One of the many puzzling things about our bodies is how blood can run uphill, that is, when a person is standing, how does the used up venous supply from the feet find its way back to the pumping organ? Movements of the feet and legs will squeeze the veins, pushing their contents forward. As a quantity passes a "lock" it cannot fall backward, and the next contraction crowds it further along. We may view the return from the extremities, therefore, as a series of elevatorlike trips. The car on the ground floor cannot rise to the second until the one at that station has proceeded to the next, etc.

Let us suppose, however, that a valve has given way because of too much pressure. This means that the cylinder of blood is twice the normal length and weight and must be sustained by the one below. If, after a time, this doorway in turn finally yields to the overload, the lowermost valve may be called upon to support much more than it is capable of doing. Thus all the gateways may be wide open. Advance of the blood upward by easy stages therefore becomes impossible and, because of the volume of the column, bulging of the walls may follow. Furthermore, a reverse course may actually take place at times if the individual is standing. It is clear why long periods on one's feet, with but little activity, may lead to varicosed veins.

Fortunately for all of us, the legs are provided with two sets of veins, those under discussion and those which lie between muscle layers. Each set connects with the other, so that if the superficial group is unable to function the fluid can find its way back to the heart through the deep pipes. In the condition known as milkleg, or phlebitis, a long plug [thrombus or clot] may form for a considerable distance, completely obstructing the duct, whereupon a communicating route takes up the job and sends the blood to the other structures.

In order to prevent varicose ulcers, which are annoying and stubborn, it has been proposed that a solution be injected into these surface veins for the purpose of obliterating them. In skilled hands the treatment is simple, but it requires considerable knowledge of both anatomy and the physiology of the circulation, of the proper amount to employ, and, of course, surgical asepsis.

The procedure is not perfect but, in suitable cases, relief is offered in about 75 per cent. Many physicians have treated several thousand such patients with results sufficiently favorable to justify the plan. Sometimes ligation, or tying, is the method of choice. This may be followed by the use of the hardening solution, when the vein may be allowed to cease its duties and thus absorb at a later date, the blood being sidetracked into the interior pathways.

TREATING COLD FEET.

S. D. A. writes: My feet always are cold. I wake up during the night and cannot get back to sleep because of this annoyance. How can I keep my feet warm at night?

REPLY.

Coldness of the feet is often an early symptom of circulatory disease and it would be wise to consult your physician if the trouble persists. However, it may be temporary, due to insufficient vitamins or nervousness. Soak the pedal extremities each night in hot water for at least one-half hour, dry thoroughly, and anoint with some bland ointment, such as cocoa butter or lanolin. Rub this material into the skin for several minutes. Woolen bedsocks may be worn if needed. Use the ointment each morning before dressing.

CAUSES OF BEDSORES.

A. R. writes: Why are some individuals more susceptible to bedsores than others?

REPLY.

Bedsores arise whenever the nutrition of the skin is lowered. Pressure and uncleanliness are prominent factors. When one is confined to bed for weeks or months great care must be exercised in the hygiene of the epidermis. The lower sheet must not be permitted to wrinkle and bony prominences are usually protected with cotton or rubber rings. The weaker the patient the more susceptible. Those with thin skins require extra precautions.

DEPENDS ON TYPE.

L. K. writes: Some months ago I thought I had a felon on a finger and used home remedies, such as Epsom salts, etc. It did not improve, so I went to a clinic and the physician there said it was a fungus infection. What remedy would you suggest?

REPLY.

Treatment depends on the type of fungus. Boric ointment, thick calamine lotions, aluminum acetate ointment are all soothing preparations.

PANCREAS UNCHANGED.

T. H. writes: After a test for diabetes the doctor told me I had sugar, but that the disease was not organic. What did he mean? He put me on a diet and gave me insulin.

REPLY.

I am not sure, but your physician probably meant that, in his opinion, no changes in the pancreas have occurred which are of permanent character. Functional is the term employed to indicate a type of disorder which is unaccompanied by tissue change or destruction.

DIVORCE COURT CLOGGED AGAIN.

Chicago, Sept. 23.—Last year the judges of the Superior court decided that only one judge was necessary to handle the business of the Divorce court. Judge Lupe was asked to handle the work and he made a noble attempt. He worked all year from morning to night to keep the docket in a semblance of order. Despite his work the divorce docket became hopelessly clogged, so that finally other judges were called in to help clean it up.

This year the Superior court persists in having only one court for a job that requires at least two judges. In the Divorce court, where so many problems require immediate hearing, an immediate hearing should be made available.

WOULD CHECK ON SLUSH MONEY.

Chicago, Sept. 23.—What about a federal law to require any political party in power to make known the exact amount of money spent for political propaganda if the money is taken from the United States treasury? No matter what form, whether by radio, mail, speeches, traveling or employed to distribute political circulars or letters. This new law should include a full and truthful statement by the President when and if his traveling expenses exceed the yearly amount allowed, which I understand is $25,000 a year.

Every corporation executive is usually required to give directors and stockholders a full statement of moneys spent, and I say the American taxpayer is entitled to know how his money is being spent.

Every pay check, regardless of amount, when paid out for political propaganda should be required by law to pass through and be checked by the controler general's office for record.

GRANDMOTHER JOINS IN PROTEST.

Chicago, Sept. 24.—I am in favor of that Grand Rapids father about murder on the radio. I have several grandchildren and all my daughter hears when they come from school is, "Mother, what time is so and so on the radio?" Of course, it is a murder program or shooting some one. It is so heart-rending that sometimes I just cannot stand to listen to it. The children all but stick their heads into the radio not to miss a single word of it. If I had my say, none of that would be on the radio. Give us more waltz music or band music. This so-called jitterbug music is not music.

AN OBJECT LESSON IN POLITICS.

Chicago, Sept. 23.—I want to congratulate you, as one Republican to another, on your editorial, "On Getting Into Politics." Personally I feel this is one of the best editorials on practical politics it has been my privilege to read.

It has not been my pleasure to meet Mr. Paddock, but I believe the leadership which he has displayed in answering his business acquaintance will serve as an example to many of our backward Republicans who think they can do nothing other than vote to eliminate this New Deal.

THE MARRIED WOMAN'S VIEW.

Chicago, Sept. 23.—A. G. P.'s letter gave me a chuckle. If I were in her boots and were let out with another single girl and the services of the two married ones retained, I would think that maybe the two married women were kept on because they were the more efficient. Then I would prepare myself to render better service to my next employer so I would be retained instead of let out when forces had to be reduced.

MARRIED.

NEED A DOSE OF PATRIOTISM.

Sheboygan, Wis., Sept. 23.—What this country needs is a good big dose of practical patriotism. Not the kind that comes to the fore when banners are flying and soldiers marching, but sane, everyday, down to the earth patriotism as our forbears knew it and loved it, and of which one ounce in time of peace is worth a barrel in time of war.

We need a patriotism so fervid, so constant, so complete that it will "purge" America once and for all of communists and communism. We need a patriotism now that will reelect to public office those men who, though they stood to lose all, risked that all willingly in defense of the constitution. They are the real heroes of this decade, and I for one would like to contribute to a fund whereby their names might be written in letters of gold and placed in the most conspicuous place in Washington for all of us to honor and remember.

We need a patriotism so great that it dares serve notice on any man aspiring to be President that no man lives who is greater than the constitution of these United States.

WOULD PUT CLUB "IN ITS PLACE."

Chicago, Sept. 23.—It is about time that the Chicago Motor club is put in its place. Since when does a private corporation, organized for profit, dictate to our city how to plan its streets?

Why doesn't some alderman crack down on the club's officials and put them where they belong, selling insurance and towing service?

This organization seems to think it is a legal body and is giving the public an erroneous idea as to its authority. It has no more to say than any citizen.

If Congress street or any other street is the one the people want, that is the street to choose. What the Chicago Motor club thinks is no more important than what the citizen thinks. We did not delegate any authority whatsoever to them.

WPA WORK IN CICERO.

Chicago, Sept. 22.—Reading your daily articles regarding the WPA, I wonder if you would go to as great an extent to prove the good results shown by the organization as you do the faults of some petty supervisor or members of its personnel?

There is a project in the Cicero town hall that is doing "Codification of Ordinances," and over a period of just a little over four months has checked over 5,560 ordinances dating back to 1869, with an average personnel of eleven workers.

Why not investigate and find out from the town president, town clerk, and town attorney the wonderful work this project is doing and what a great help this codification will be to Cicero?

Through questioning of WPA workers I find only one who is not looking for an opportunity of bettering himself by getting an outside position. I think the percentage of them doing their best will be as great as the percentage of those in other walks of life.

SCHOOL CHILDREN IN PERIL.

Chicago, Sept. 22.—Referring to the crossing at Ogden avenue and Polk street: Hundreds of children cross there daily to attend the Irving school and not a patrolman to watch the crossing. I have three children of ages 7, 8, and 9, and I have to take them back and forth from school to save their lives. There are only two patrol boys watching there and they need protection themselves, as they are about 13 years old, and sometimes they aren't even there. Why can't we have a patrolman there or at least stop lights as other crossings have?

If you had a baby 10 months old to take along when going back and forth you would feel the same as I do. Cold weather is almost here.

Do we send the children to school to be educated or to get killed on an unguarded crossing?

SMOKE NUISANCE.

Chicago, Sept. 22.—[Friend of the People.]—I appeal to you in aiding me to obtain some official action regarding excess smoke and an unhealthy situation caused as a result of this smoke in my community. The neighborhood in which I live contains some manufacturing firms, and among them is one which every evening and Sunday, inclusive, at about 7 p. m., when most of the inhabitants of this particular district are home, burns all its refuse from process of ink making. As a result of this refuse burning, there forms a very black and foglike smoke screen over the whole community which has a very unpleasant and unhealthy odor. The firm has a low smoke stack and I believe it is violating some city ordinance. Complaints have been made to the firm about this situation by many of the property owners, but as yet no definite action has been taken.

J. R.

This complaint has been assigned for immediate investigation and the department will follow up the matter until the smoke nuisance has been entirely abated.

GARBAGE DISPOSAL.

Chicago, Sept. 22.—[Friend of the People.]—I would like to know of some way to stop a tenant on the third floor of this building from throwing broken glass and garbage down on our heads. My dog's feet are all cut from the glass and my little girl can't be on the back porch without being bitten by dirty flies attracted by this garbage. I've pleaded with this family to stop doing this, but they become abusive and refuse to do so. I live on the first floor of this building. Any help or advice you can give will be greatly appreciated.

E. H.

Our sanitary inspector's report regarding the objectionable conditions mentioned resulted in the following order being served upon the persons responsible for the abatement of the nuisance: "Discontinue throwing garbage and refuse into the rear yard. Provide adequate covered metal garbage and refuse receptacles."

This matter was followed up and the premises kept under observation until the inspector reported full compliance with our orders.

11 NORTH SHORE GROUPS INDORSE NEW 'L' HIGHWAY

Think Northwest Artery Would Benefit All.

BY HAL FOUST.

North shore neighborhoods already served by lake front express highways are the latest to join in the campaign to obtain an elevated highway from the loop to the northwestern tip of Chicago.

Lake shore highways, they contend, are adequate for normal north side trafic but are now crowded because trafic from the west uses them as its only express outlets. The proposed northwest "L" highway would relieve this lake front congestion and provide residents of the northwestern section with direct access to the loop.

Write Officials Indorsing It.

A resolution indorsing the project has been signed by the north area council of the Chicago Motor club. This council is a federation of eleven local organizations from the loop to Evanston along the lake front.

Copies of a resolution will be received in the mail today by Gov. Horner, Mayor Kelly, and President Clayton F. Smith of the Cook county board.

"All who have studied the question agree that Chicago needs an elevated highway from the loop northwest to Central avenue at about Foster avenue," said William R. Matthews, department of public works engineer, at a meeting of the motor club's council.

"The Northwest highway should have three unobstructed pavement lanes in each direction. In addition, there should be acceleration and deceleration lanes approaching and leaving the ramps to the ground level."

On Mayor's Study Group.

Matthews' statement was informal and unofficial. He was a member of Mayor Kelly's committee of engineers which last year studied the west side's street transportation problems. The committee last February recommended an elevated highway west from the north end of the loop. It also recommended the development of Congress street immediately as a parkway and partly elevated highway, designed so as to facilitate later conversion to complete elevation.

William Calvert, executive secretary of the North Central association, representing interests immediately north of the loop, told the area council that the northwest elevated highway would also relieve congestion on the La Salle, Dearborn, Clark, State and Wabash approaches to the loop from the north.

Judge James G. Barber of the Evanston Safety council said north shore suburbs were interested because a northwest elevated highway would aid them in routing through trafic over Skokie road that now uses residential streets near the lake.

NEW PERSONALTY TAX RULES CUT VALUES SLIGHTLY

A slight reduction in the assessed value of personal property in North township, which includes the Gold Coast, was reported yesterday by Assessor John S. Clark. He announced the decrease on completion of the tabulation of personal property assessments for the 1938 tax rolls.

The 1938 assessment for the township totals $51,613,887, compared with $53,183,245 for 1937, a reduction of $1,569,358.

The total assessed value of the personal property was computed under the new rules of assessing intangibles. Under these rules, items such as stocks, bonds, and bank deposits, were assessed at 10 per cent of the market value, instead of 20 per cent, as in previous years.

The assessor, who adopted the new rules on the recommendation of a citizens' committee, expressed satisfaction in their practical operation. He said: "This liberal treatment of property of that class is definite evidence that the assessments are not appreciably lowered."

THREE RADICALS CONSIDERED FOR SUPREME COURT

Minton and Pecora Listed Among Possibilities.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—With the United States Supreme court ready to convene for another momentous term a week from tomorrow, three radical extremists—carbon copies of Justice Hugo L. Black—are said to be under consideration by President Rosevelt for appointment to the vacancy created by the death of Justice Benjamin N. Cardozo.

Sources close to the White House revealed today that Senator Lewis B. Schwellenbach [D., Wash.], Senator Sherman Minton [D., Ind.], and Justice Ferdinand Pecora of the New York Supreme court are the present favorites among those whom Mr. Roosevelt has considered for the Cardozo vacancy.

Frankfurter Reported Out.

At the same time, it was learned in authoritative quarters that Prof. Felix Frankfurter of the Harvard law school, who has supplied the Roosevelt administration with group after group of "hot dog" brain trusters, is "definitly out of the picture so far as the Supreme court is concerned."

For weeks Frankfurter held first place in all speculative lists concerning the Supreme court vacancy after Senator George W. Norris [Rad., Neb.] made a public appeal for his appointment. This was a natural conclusion, for the President never before has scorned Norris' advice.

But Frankfurter is to be passed over, according to the information obtained today, because he opposed the President's scheme to pack the Supreme court.

Highly Regarded by Bar.

This will disappoint the membership of the American Bar association, for lawyers generally regard Prof. Frankfurter as being less radical than his brain trust protégés, or the popular impression of him created by the activities of the brain trusters. They respect his legal scholarship, and believe that his radicalism would mellow with the years on the bench. As compared with another Black, bar leaders would look on Frankfurter as another Holmes or Brandeis.

Upon the recommendation of the late Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, former Gov. Joseph B. Ely nominated Prof. Frankfurter to the Massachusetts Supreme Judicial court in 1932, but he declined.

These considerations, however, have not induced President Roosevelt to overlook Prof. Frankfurter's unpardonable offense in opposing the court packing bill.

Left Wingers Urge Program.

It is well known in Washington that some of the President's left-wing advisers advocate the appointment of political charlatans to the Supreme court, which they regard as an outmoded and undesirable instituion.

Minton and Schellenbach, the two senators under consideration for the Cardozo vacancy, were intimate associates of Senator Black, the former Ku Klux Klansman, before his appointment to the Supreme court. They served with him on the Black inquisitorial committee which made wholesale seizures of telegrams and conducted a campaign of terrorism against opponents of legislation demanded by the White House.

Like Black, they have inveighed in the senate against the newspapers of the country for criticizing the policies of the administration. Minton even introduced a bill designed to shackle the freedom of the press.

Once Offered to Minton.

Minton was offered the Supreme court appointment which Black received upon the retirement of Justice Willis Van Devanter. For reasons known only to himself, he hesitated, suggesting that Black was better qualified, and Black got the job.

The first man to be considered for the Van Devanter vacancy, however, was Pecora. Emissaries of the White House went so far as to approach senators who had led the fight against the court packing bill regarding their attitude on confirmation of Pecora. It was not favorable and the administration decided not to risk a confirmation fight so soon after defeat of the court packing. "Senatorial courtesy" assured confirmation of a member of the senate.

For this reason, Minton and Schwellenbach are believed to have better chances than Pecora. The public revulsion against Pecora for declaring a mistrial in the racket conspiracy case against James J. Hines, Tammany leader and political ally of the Roosevelt administration, would work against him in the senate, according to the best opinion in that body. His appointment would be looked upon as a reward for a political favor in upsetting the apple cart of District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey, Republican white hope for governor of New York.

Nominations in January.

President Roosevelt, it is understood, will make no nomination for the Supreme court vacancy until congress meets Jan. 3, unless a special session is called in the meantime.

It is believed in some quarters that the Supreme court vacancy may have some effect on the question of calling a special session of congress in November to deal with the farm and railway problems. If the Republicans should gain a few seats in the November elections, the nominee would have a better chance of being confirmed than he would in January.

6 BURNED AS SPEED BOAT EXPLODES; ONE HURLED INTO RIVER

Six persons were burned late yesterday afternoon when a faulty gasoline line caused an explosion on a speed boat near the Michigan avenue bridge in the Chicago river. All were taken to the Passavant hospital for treatment and then sent to their homes.

They are Miss Agnes Ryan, 29 years old, 7926 Aberdeen street; her nephew, Roger O'Neill, 4; Claude Warfield, 21, of Maxwell, Ia.; Eldon Davis, 22, of Nevada, Ia.; William Poulos, 47, of 2359 North Clark street, and Gus Palmquist, 33, operator and part owner of the boat.

The explosion occurred just as Palmquist was leaving the dock at the south side of the river to take the others on a sight seeing trip. He was hurled into the water by the blast. Other boats nearby went to the rescue and pushed the craft to shore. Firemen extinguished the blaze that followed the explosion.

WAGNER SHUNS GOVERNOR RACE; PREFERS SENATE

New York, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Senator Robert F. Wagner [D., N. Y.] removed himself today from the list of possible candidates for governor of New York, asserting in a formal statement that he would accept only renomination to the United States senate.

Wagner has been mentioned frequently by Democratic leaders as a strong possibility to succeed Gov. Herbert H. Lehman in the event Lehman holds to his announced intention of seeking the senate seat made vacant by the death of Royal S. Copeland.

Thomas E. Dewey, racket smashing prosecutor of New York county, generally is expected to be the Republican gubernatorial choice.

Both Republicans and Democrats will hold their state conventions this week—the Republicans at Saratoga Springs Wednesday and the Democrats at Rochester Thursday.

TAVERN OWNER SHOT TO DEATH; PORTER HUNTED

Anthony H. Broda, 31 years old, was shot to death in the basement of his tavern at 4306 South Ashland avenue early today. New City police immediately began a search for a porter as the alleged slayer.

The story of the shooting was told by Claude Cox, 42 years old, colored, a packing house employé, who sleeps in the basement. The porter employed by Broda also slept there. Early today, according to Policeman Patrick McMahon, Broda ordered the porter out and the porter shot him in the head.

Broda lived in the rear of the tavern with his wife, Catherine, and son, Eugene, 12 years old.

HOMER NEISZ

Weed Menace Fought

Sept. 25, 1938.

FARMERS in Illinois rapidly are becoming more concerned about the menace of weeds and more interested in the state-wide effort to control them, according to a preliminary report made yesterday by L. A. Moore of the state department of agriculture at Springfield to J. H. Lloyd, director of the department. Final reports on the weed control work for this year will not be completed until Dec. 1.

More than 10,000 persons from fifty-seven counties attended weed control demonstrations during the summer, Moore's report showed. And it indicated that many more farmers will join in the program next year, Lloyd said. He pointed out that his department and the college of agriculture at the University of Illinois, Urbana, were swamped this year with inquiries about the program and with weed specimens sent in for identification.

Popularity Spreads.

Adoption by farm bureaus and garden clubs of weed control as a major project was given as an indication of the rapidly spreading popularity of the program. "Weed control means better public health, more profitable farming, and a more beautiful state," Lloyd said. The weed eradication work was started on a state-wide basis in 1937.

1. Prior to 1938 it was necessary for the college of agriculture and the state department of agriculture to promote weed control work. This year the unsolicited demand from farm bureaus and others taxed both institutions heavily.

2. Farm bureaus have adopted weed control as a major project.

3. A marked increase in interest in weed control has been shown by women's organizations, such as garden clubs.

4. Laboratory services applied to weed control have been increased.

5. Surveys show that approximately 60 per cent of the meadow and pasture land was mowed this year before ragweed pollen was shed.

6. Most of the stubble fields were plowed before the ragweed had shed its pollen.

7. In many of the commercial seed producing counties of the state fields have been gone over and the weeds pulled or cut. This has added greatly to the demand for seed produced in those counties.

8. Both rural and city people are becoming more and more conscious of the cost of weeds and of their menace to public health.

Pasture Surveys Made.

An indication of the seriousness of the weed problem and of the need for continuing control efforts is shown in a series of pasture surveys made by the state weed control committee. From counts taken at random it was estimated that at least 40 per cent of the land now devoted to pasture in the state is occupied by weeds rather than pasture plants. Weeds are growing on only about 10 per cent of the land in the best pastures, while in the worst ones weeds made up about 90 per cent of the vegetation. In one pasture that was surveyed it was estimated that there were more than 16 million weeds growing on each acre.

Irish Setter

Native of Ireland. First imported to America about 1875. Believed to be a cross of English setter, spaniel and pointer. Originally red and white in coloring. Today's standards call for solid mahogany red or rich golden chestnut. Essentially a gun dog. Bold, hardy, yet remarkably gentle nature. Noted for long life.

He's giving his nerves a rest...and so is she

THE DOG pictured above is relaxing—resting his nerves. He has a nervous system amazingly similar to yours, with this difference: It is the nature of the dog to rest when he needs rest. It is the nature of mankind to drive on until nerves jerk and twitch... until you are cross and irritable...tired out without knowing it. No matter which form of tenseness you feel, try this experiment: Ease up and enjoy a Camel. The enjoyment of Camels can be your frequent reminder to take time out. Camels are made from costlier tobaccos. They are so mild and comforting. Smokers find that "Let up—light up a Camel" puts more zest into life, and that Camel's costlier tobaccos soothe their nerves.

"When my nerves are tired, a Camel helps them to rest."

From the selection of the seed, right down to the day of harvest, Camel tobacco experts watch the development of the crop in each locality. The Camel cigarette buyers know where the mild, choice, aromatic tobacco is. And they buy accordingly.

Miss Behrens, Miss Manning to Make Debuts

BY JUDITH CASS.

TWO more names to be added to the list of debutantes are those of Miss Gene Manning and Miss Barbara Behrens. Miss Manning, the eldest of the three daughters of the Lucius B. Mannings of 1500 Lake Shore drive, probably will be presented on Christmas day. The family just is back from a summer in the west, spent partly on a ranch and partly in Santa Barbara, where they occupied the John J. Mitchells' beach cottage.

Miss Manning was graduated from the Westover school last spring. Before going there she and her sister, Meredith, who is just a year younger, studied in Switzerland. Meredith is at the Madeira school in Washington, D. C., this winter; next year she will be making a début. The youngest child is in the Girls' Latin school this year.

Miss Behrens is just back from a summer in the west, also. She and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Behrens, spend every summer at their home in Belvidere, across the bay from San Francisco. They also have a home in Wayne and an apartment at 179 Lake Shore drive. Mr. and Mrs. Behrens are making tentative plans for a début party during the Christmas holidays.

Miss Behrens spent four years at the Principia school in St. Louis and before that attended the Girls' Latin school. She will leave tomorrow for her second year at Pine Manor college.

Mary Ryerson to Accompany Grandmother to Virginia.

Miss Mary Ryerson, debutante daughter of the Joseph T. Ryersons, left Friday for Philadelphia to attend the début Saturday of a classmate at St. Timothy's, Miss Ernesta Drinker. Miss Ryerson will meet her grandmother, Mrs. Hugh J. McBirney, in New York this week when the latter returns from Baden-Baden, and together they will go to the Virginia Hot Springs for several weeks.

Miss Ryerson will make her début at a tea at the Casino on Nov. 8, and in Dec. 30 her parents are giving a ball for her at the Blackstone. She will go to Boston the middle of November for a dinner-dance her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Frost, will give on Nov. 16.

Mrs. I. Newton Perry and her debutante daughter, Sally, arrived in Chicago last Thursday night from a long stay in Manila with the former Polly Perry and her husband, Harold Kneedler, and their three babies. The Perrys have not yet set a date for Sally's début, but they are planning to give a dinner-dance at the Casino during the Christmas holiday season. Young Newt Perry has left for his studies at Yale.

Jean Ericson Engaged to Wed Norman Goss.

At a cocktail party on Saturday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Chester F. Ericson of 190 East Chestnut street, formerly of Winnetka, announced the engagement of their daughter, Jean Armour, to Norman Goss, son of Mrs. Joseph Goss of Pasadena, Cal.

Miss Ericson attended the Roycemore school, Miss Madeira's school, the Finch school, and the Brilliamont school in Lausanne, Switzerland. She spent last winter studying art and music in Paris. Miss Ericson did not make a formal début, although she was on the list in 1936.

Mr. Goss attended the Thatcher school in the Ojai valley and spent four years studying the cello at the conservatoire in Paris.

Miss Ericson arrived in town Friday morning from a visit with Mr. Goss and his mother in Pasadena. Mr. Goss accompanied her and will leave this week for Paris, where he will continue his studies this winter. No date has been set for the wedding.

Mail Truesdale-Gaspar Wedding Invitations.

Invitations have been mailed for the wedding on Oct. 15 of Miss Lois Truesdale, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Day Truesdale of Winnetka, to Charles Jamieson Gaspar, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gaspar of Larchmont, N. Y. The ceremony will take place at 4:30 o'clock in the Winnetka Congregational church, with the Rev. Samuel D. Harkness officiating. A small reception will follow at the Indian Hill club.

Miss Marjorie Truesdale will come from New York, where she has been since she was graduated from Sarah Lawrence college in June, to be maid of honor for her sister. Mrs. John Powell of Cleveland, O., a roommate of Miss Truesdale's at Connecticut college, will be matron of honor. The bridesmaids will be Miss Joan Ritter, who is engaged to be married Bouquet for Chamberlain.

Last Thursday morning a man, grim as only a Scotsman can be grim, strode into a Chicago flower shop and demanded: "If you can telegraph flowers in the United States, can you cable them to England, too?" Assured that correspondents in England would handle his cable order, he said: "Well, here it is: 'Deliver to Neville Chamberlain, 10 Downing street, one large bunch of poison ivy, with the largest white feather in London stuck in the middle, tied with yellow ribbon.'"

Dear Miss Provines: I'm sorry you were deceived. Neither my girl friend nor I wrote that letter. . . . There's nothing clandestine about our meetings. It is love in bloom. I am afraid though that because of the coming cold weather and the publicity we will have to return to the old place where we met all last winter.

Darn this depression! Must we always just meet and hold hands every afternoon from 3:30 to 4:00?

Negro Players Stage 'Mikado' in Swing Style

"THE MIKADO."

Comic opera in two acts. Book and lyrics by W. S. Gilbert; music by Sir Arthur Sullivan, with swing adaptations by Genthry Warden. Directed by Harry Minturn. Presented by the Federal theater at the Great Northern theater, Sunday evening, Sept. 25, 1938.

THE CAST.

Nanki-Poo	Maurice Cooper
Fish-Tush	Lewis White
Ko-Ko	Herman Greene
Pooh-Bah	William Franklin
Yum-Yum	Gladys Boucree
Pitti-Sing	Frankie Fambro
Peep-Bo	Mabel Carter
Katisha	Mabel Walker
The Mikado	Edward Fraction

BY CECIL SMITH.

How the Japanese town of Titipu has changed since Gilbert and Sullivan first brought its doings to the attention of the English speaking world a half century ago! On extremely slight provocation the subjects of the Mikado nowadays toss off a tap dance or engage in a spree of the most authentic Harlem trucking. The Mikado himself, wearing garments of state consisting of a flowing robe of red and yellow awning stripes and a tall silk hat studded with weary feathers, explains his object all sublime in spicy swing rhythm.

These developments in the manners and mores of the Japanese people, and many others equally unprecedented, were revealed to an audience at the Great Northern theater last night as the Federal theater presented the premiere of its all-Negro version of "The Mikado."

The scene of the action, it must be confessed, has been changed from Japan to an unspecified coral island in the Pacific. Clive Rickabaugh has designed two imaginative sets—the first with a background of mountain peaks, from which Fujiyama is conspicuously absent, and the second a striking South Sea locale with a moon and undulating waves in the middle distance. John Pratt has solved what must have been a knotty problem of costuming by finding a striking meeting ground of African and Japanese motifs.

The performance could easily have been a sorry mess, but it is not. The swing and jitterbug element, titillating though it is, has not been allowed to break out of the comic moments of the opera into the serious or sentimental parts. The dialog is spoken straight at all times.

The principals have been schooled in many of the traditions of Gilbert and Sullivan behavior, and even employ a great deal of the conventional business. The singing is startlingly good a great deal of the time, and the choral climaxes sound almost as big as the triumphal scene in "Aida."

Herman Greene, as Ko-Ko, the Lord High Executioner, is the one member of the cast who acts his rôle wholly in a vein of low comedy. Yet he is so direct, so intelligent in his unorthodox reading of his lines, and often so heartily funny in his antics, that he is actually the star of the performance. William Franklin and Lewis White, as Pooh-Bah and Pish-Tush, discover a higher plane of gentility, and Mr. Franklin in particular sings cleanly and forcefully in a good baritone voice.

On the musical side Maurice Cooper, a strikingly handsome tenor with a light, pleasing lyric voice, sings with exquisite taste and choice musicianship. He is the best Nanki-Poo I have ever heard, bar none. His vis-à-vis, Gladys Boucree, likewise sings Yum-Yum's music delightfully.

When all is said and done, this modernized "Mikado" is momentarily amusing for its iconoclasms of treatment, but much more permanently satisfying for the honest competence with which the enduring beauties of the opera are respectfully projected.

Regal Glamor Marks Wedding Gowns of Fall

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Dozens of fall brides-to-be are losing what's left of their hearts to wedding clothes. These fashions appear to have been lifted from the pageantry scenes of the era of glamorous court dress.

Velvet is the favorite fabric. Vivid colors are used for the bridesmaids, subtle shades for the matron of honor, the bride's mother, and the guests. Picture book loveliness in creamy ivory velvet or soft dull white fashions the bridal gowns.

An exceptionally beautiful showing of fall and winter wedding outfits features a full skirted gleaming satin gown. The gown is trimmed with rare lace. There is a shortish veil of misty tulle that can be banished in favor of some heirloom lace if you are lucky enough to possess such a priceless bit of romance. The bridesmaids' gowns are of American beauty velvet, made with long sleeves, a demure off-the-shoulder fitted bodice and wide skirts worn over hoops.

Tiny hats with matching feathers repeat the color of the velvet. Victorian bouquets, tightly bunched and carried in the hand, can be made of old-fashioned pink rosebuds and violets.

The maid of honor is dressed in a tobacco brown velvet dress with a honey beige fitted long sleeved jacket for contrast. A matching hat is small and combines the two contrasting colors and has the same nodding tufts of ostrich feathers.

Another color scheme includes amber velvet bridesmaids dresses, a wedding gown of pale gold moire silk [the silk stiff enough to stand alone], and a long veil. The maid of honor gown is in silver green. All accessories are in dull gold tone, including sandals, small coquettish hats [tied with gold colored ribbon], and bouquets of small chrysanthemums in maroon and gold.

A blue wedding . . . the bridal gown is shimmering silk satin with just a hint of blue in the shadowed folds. The bridesmaid dresses are in soft, clinging sapphire blue, two in pale blue, two in a medium shade, and the last two in the deepest tone of sapphire blue. Sandals and the flowered hats with their long velvet streamers are in pink. Bouquets are of those fabulously large, lovely pink dahlias.

Other color schemes and different gowns in all the loveliest and most picturesque fabrics are now ready in the wedding service bureau.

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

The Year's Wash

Aboard the Chief, Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Just a year ago your reporter looked out the train windows and regarded Albuquerque dozing hotly in the sun beating down on the furrowed countenance of New Mexico. That was my first trip to the far west, and on the morrow I was to start a daily column from Hollywood. Here it is a year later and we're returning to the coast as veterans, because in the interim of 365 days I've averaged about 1,200 words a day about the glamor girls and boys.

A month spent east of the Rockies was a welcome interlude. Hollywood is so engrossed in making pictures that it is important to get away from it and learn what the rest of the country is thinking about and talking about. New York was as refreshing as a cold shower. Chicago was as stimulating as a brisk rubdown after that shower. In those two great cities I talked to hundreds of people and their comment was this: "We aren't interested in anything that comes out of Hollywood except great pictures. We don't care what L. B. Mayer thinks, or what Will Hays thinks, or what Wanger thinks, or what the Warners think. Their statements to the press uniformly are boring. All we want is entertaining pictures. Tell the movie magnates to stop talking and give us entertainment."

There is tremendous national interest in Hollywood and its performers, absolutely no interest in Hollywood executives. To my surprise, there is no resentment toward picture performers because of the high salaries they receive. "They pay most of it back in taxes," the fans tell you philosophically. The pair about whom you are asked the most questions are Clark Gable and Carole Lombard. To the people these two seem to be the most typical of movie stars, exciting and glamorous.

On the trip east I went to Washington, D. C., to see Thurman Arnold, assistant United States attorney general who will prosecute the movies as a trust. I went to the Legion of Decency and interviewed its spokesman. I interviewed Radio City's managing director, Van Schmus, who has the opportunity of studying the reactions of more movie fans than any other exhibitor. The consensus is that the movies are doing about a 50 per cent job. That Hollywood is out of touch with its market, that stars honored by Hollywood are indeed "poison" at national box offices, and that the industry needs an infusion of new blood, new ideas.

The "star system" of Hollywood is as dead as the dodo, according to surveys I made. Today the play is the thing. There is no combination of stars that can persuade the public to sit through a bad picture. The public now is judging the picture coldly and dispassionately and star names on the marquee of a theater mean something only if the picture is sock entertainment. Success of the Andy Hardy series is proof positive of this change in viewpoint. There are no glamor names in the Hardy series. No longer can Hollywood save a poor picture by rushing stars into the cast.

Carole Lombard and Clark Gable—most asked about.

The things that mean so much in Beverly Hills and Bel Air and Santa Monica—parties, magnificent homes, social ratings—and which cost the stars so much to maintain, make no impression on the movie fans. All they know is what they see on the screen and whether the picture is good or not. A performer could live in a tent in California and eat nothing but canned goods, so far as the movie fan is concerned. It wouldn't matter so long as that performer gave a fine picture. In other words, the fans don't ask the box office ticket seller if the performers in the picture attended Countess Dorothy Di Frasso's latest party.

So the month's travels in the east and midwest contributed mightily to your reporter's sanity and sense of proportion, and will benefit his reporting immeasurably. And I'm taking back to Hollywood the fruits of these observations and will pass them on to the industry and its leaders, because the sooner they grasp what the fans are thinking and saying the sooner they can profit.

In the last analysis the only master minds in this business are the fans. You make stars and break them by attending their pictures or staying away from them. A newspaper writer is a genius when he expresses on paper the thoughts which the public is thinking. A movie magnate is a genius when, and only when, he makes the pictures that fans will buy. That is the message I'm taking back to the coast.

Good Morning!

An able and likable cast manages to keep you interested in this one, though the writer's great striving toward ultra sophistication at times afflicts the observer with impatience and boredom.

The action is concerned with a young business woman's efforts to make teammates of marriage and a career. An adoring husband with a will of his own is the deerfly who causes bucking and final breaking of the traces. . . . But, when love holds the reins—well—you know—?

Priscilla Lane carries on her amateurish but able young shoulders the rôle of the wife. She's a pretty, enthusiastic child and, if sometimes her line delivery is recitative rather than spontaneous, the fault is not a great one as weighed against her charm and sincerity.

Wayne Morris gives a corking performance as "Fool" [see title] husband. Other "fools" are as well portrayed as the script permits. . . . Mona Barrie depicts crisply a smart, straightforward career girl.

Direction is better than the script. Staging, costumes, photography, etc., satisfy. Dialog—terrible!

See you tomorrow.

The Housewife

We have discovered an excellent household deodorant. You can use it in solution in a spray gun to kill suspended odors from cooking, or the musty smell of closets and cellars, and you can even spray it on rugs, draperies, and floors to remove any odor.

Or use it as you would soap and water for cleaning and scrubbing. Without the addition of soap it will clean and deodorize at the same time. It does not leave an odor behind it. It is odorless.

This deodorant comes in four handy sizes. It costs little.

SYNOPSIS.

David Beddoes, young American, accompanies his cousin, Alison, to a party at Lady Wibbe's. By mistake they go to the house next door. While they are talking to the spinsterish woman who receives them they hear a woman scream and a body fall. The spinster explains it is a parrot. But 13 year old Penelope Wibbe says their strange neighbors have no parrot. While in the house David had seen a favorite book of his former love, Betsy Greentree, with her initials in it. Betsy's father died after losing his money. While traveling in Europe with her aunt, Fanny Rush, Betsy met and married an Englishman, Geoffrey Scarpath. David breakfasts next morning with Alison and her friend, Dr. Colin Ladbroke.

INSTALMENT VII.

THE COVER-UP PARROT.

"No, Colin, I've never seen young Mr. Scarpath."

Out of the tail of her eye Alison noted David's rigid attitude. "It's just that he married a girl David and I used to know back home. Go on, what's he like?"

"Married! That's rather surprising news. He's my junior by several years—about twenty-eight he'll be by now—and our lines didn't exactly cross. I'm Balliol, he's Brasenose."

"Explaining everything, to any one except barbarians! What's the crab about him?"

"Crab? Why, none."

"You looked as though there were."

"Did I? No reason." Colin pulled thoughtfully on his pipe. "Well, how shall I describe him? He's able, brilliant. Rather unusually attractive, possibly just a spot erratic. That's to say he does a multitude of things admirably up to a point, but seems never to carry them through. His tennis got him into the semi-finals at Wimbledon two years running. He's brought out one novel in the Evelyn Waugh manner and hasn't followed it up. In odd moments, I believe, he composes ballets, and his performance on the piano is quite remarkable, only, of course, doesn't bring in any money."

"Piano!"

Confused by the sudden fixity of two pairs of eyes Colin again showed hesitation.

"One takes it all these varied accomplishments are simply for amusement. In fact, it's not straining the point to say your friend's husband rather perfectly deserves the term 'gentleman amateur.' One hears that old Scarpath, a national hero by the way, left his affairs in a filthy tangle. Young Mrs. Geoffrey has money, of course?"

"Was it yesterday you sold a parrot?
Sure it wasn't today?"

Alison looked again at David. He had not stirred.

"That's the funny part," she said slowly. "She hasn't, or at least not much. Her father went bust, too, but we don't know anything positively as it's so long since we've seen her. Why were you astonished to hear Geoffrey Scarpath was married?"

"I suppose," answered Colin, carefully excavating his pipe bowl with a pin fished from his lapel, "because his doings are generally so well publicized. Turn up any old file of The Sketch or The Bystander, you're almost sure to see him practicing his spectacular back-hand, leaping on skis at Murren, or posed by his keyboard. I never meet him. We don't move in the same circles—for a very good reason. My niece Angela does, though. I'll ask her about him if you like."

"Does he do anything for a living?"

It was David's first contribution, and his air of indifference fooled no one.

"Not unless he's grown wings," Colin eyed the two of them awkwardly. "Any provocation," he inquired, "for this cross-examining?"

"Well—yes, in a way. If it won't bore you——"

Alison summarized the Hampstead episode. "Can't you see it all?" she wound up. "Me busy convincing myself it was all right, knowing damned well it wasn't, David getting worked up over that book, and on top of this hearing that scream! Then being told about the piano—the young, good looking man and the woman who never goes out. Above all, the parrot which the Wibbe child declares doesn't exist."

Colin shoved back his hair, scratched a reflective chin, and remarked sanely that things of this kind usually had a most ordinary explanation.

"I should say there's not one chance in a million these people are the Scarpaths, or that granting they are there's anything wrong about—Damn! Your telephone—and it'll be for me, I'll bet you five bob. Want me to answer it?"

"Egotist!" She snatched the instrument from his grasp. "Hello!" she called, and next moment was holding the receiver well away from her ear to mitigate the clamor coming through it. "Who?" Her amazement changed to alertness. "O, of course, Penelope Wibbe! No, I've been up for hours . . . What's this? Go on, you're kidding me!"

"I'm not, O, truly, Miss Young! There is a parrot. A huge, wicked green one, out on a front balcony. I tell you, I've just seen it—and it's shrieking blue blazes——"

"I see. Rather explodes things."

Penelope's denial shrilled through the room.

"No! O, don't you understand? It's just come. I saw that freak of a woman putting it out—and she's terrified of it. Besides, it's in a brand new cage. Now do you see? It's plain as day what's happened. This bird's been got just to boost up that story. I mean to find out why the other woman cries quietly as though she's scared some one will hear her—why nobody goes there, and—O, bother! I've got to ring off."

"Sunday!" observed the doctor quietly. "Bad day for buying parrots. Anything, for that matter."

"That child's no fool," said Alison meditatively. "Isn't there any place on Sunday where one could buy a parrot?"

"Whitechapel, of course. Possibly it might be managed nearer to Hampstead—in Camden Town."

David was dialing a number. "That you, John?" His voice was expressionless. "Dave here. Still free for lunch? . . . Right, I'll be seeing you."

That would be John Fellowes. So, whatever their day's plans, they could count David out. Thinking that if he were away her cousin might speak more freely, Alison effaced herself. After a moody silence David spoke with painful effort.

"I'd like to dig into this—just on the n'th chance, you know. Suppose you just direct me to this Camden Town zoo?"

The shop looked a burrow, or rather a tunnel, dark, narrow, and walled high on both sides by cages precariously superimposed. The proprietor was on old man, stout and with a red, good natured face.

"No business today, sir." The seated one rose, beaming genially at David and retrieved a chameleon from his open neckband. "Anything particklar you was wanting?"

"A parrot. Got any?"

"Parrots, eh? The man deliberated. "We're on the low side at present. That there chap interest you?" He jerked a short clay pipe towards the lone representative of the parrot family, dove-gray with rose trimmings. "Fine bit o' color. Not much of a talker, o' course. Now the chap I sold yesterday had a rare lot to say for 'imself. Is it a talking bird you're after?"

David shook his head. "Not exactly. That is, was it yesterday you made that sale? Sure it wasn't today?"

A jovial chuckle met the suggestion. "Wot, on a Sunday? No blinking fear! Regulations very strict. Wouldn't do to risk it."

David explained that he was entirely ignorant of London regulations, having, indeed, only just reached this country.

"I want to win a bet. I say this friend of mine got his parrot this morning—and it might well have been here. If you could settle the point for me there'll be a pound note in it for you," added David, grinning.

"Don't you go giving me away!" he warned. "Round about nine it was. Young gentleman in a car, but wait! No money changed 'ands. I let 'im 'and me a post-dated check—and I can prove it, 'cos 'ere it is." He patted his waistcoat. "All done in a wink. Back he drives, old Joey covered over with a rug, so's to keep him quiet on the journey."

GASOLINE ALLEY—TWO AND A HALF IS A CROWD

WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: He's Sappy—She's Happy

New Clothes Stress Figure and Its Faults

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

You have the new fall outfit by now, or you know exactly what it is going to be and you're looking forward to making a hit in it. The clothes this year, the ensemble colors, the clever accessories are there to work with. But to use a clumsy paraphrase: "What doth it profit the good dame to get a perfect outfit and wear it with the same old downtrodden, slouchy gait?"

I believe that if ever a slogan could be adopted by women to their greater clothes glorification, it would be "Her walk makes the woman." Clothes never glorified a girl, her mother or her grandmother, unless the woman inside of them performed her own glorification.

The subject is in mind today because we know of a certain woman who ordered one day recently a couple of thousand dollars' worth of dresses, suits, coats, and hats (no fur coat included, either). The woman's wardrobe is crammed full now with things, but, for all the good the riotous clothes spending does her, she might just as well apply at a relief station for apparel. Her walk is spectacularly bad. She has one of those horrible postures that break in the middle, the upper part of her riding ahead of her, the derriere tugging her back the other way. It is an unusually bad walk, true, but there still are many women walking along doing anything but justice to the dressmaking art. Their carriage dooms the effect of anything and everything they put on.

It's a shame. There's youth. There's vitality. There's charm, gayety, wholesome radiance in the uplift posture and it is not hard to acquire, really. For a month or so it means watching three vital features of a good carriage—the uplifted chest, the flattened abdomen, and derriere, and feet pointed straight ahead with the step light, rising on the broad forefront of the foot.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

The "prevention is better than cure" motto is one that should be pasted across every mirror. There would be fewer beauty ailments abroad in the land if women would grasp that idea thoroughly.

In a couple of months we shall be avalanched with complaints about skin dryness. So we're beating the gun a bit and pleading with all the dry skinned girls to start their oiling program now.

Begin with your bath. Toss oil into the water and use a bland soap. Don't give your skin a chance to get too dry. If you don't know what bath oil to use we have a suggestion. There is one on the market that to us seems perfect. It's the fragrance that gets us. It makes the world seem a better place, all airy and sunshiny and exquisitely perfumed.

The fragrance itself would be difficult to analyze. It's floral, quite definitly, but it isn't cloying. What its maker strove to achieve was the rich, cool scent of fragrant flowers after a rain. Miraculously she's achieved it. It is perfect for the bath because it isn't heady. Neither is it brisk. It's just luxurious enough and sweet enough to make the bather feel like a pampered lady. It isn't costly.

ELEANOR NANGLE.

Any white cake not fine and fluffy n texture, any white cake not moist nd melting is, to put it brutally, a flop. Careful mixing and regulated ven heat should give perfect results.

Delicate White Cake.

½ cup butter, margarine, or vegetable shortening
1½ cups sifted sugar
2½ cups sifted cake flour
2½ teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
½ cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
6 egg whites, beaten stiff

Cream the butter thoroughly and work in the sugar a little at a time. Mix until light and fluffy. Sift flour once and resift three times with baking powder and cream of tartar. Add flour alternately with milk, a small amount at a time. Beat batter smooth after each addition. Add vanilla. Fold in the egg whites, which have been beaten until stiff but not dry. Spread batter in two greased and wax paper lined pans and bake at 375 degrees for 30 minutes. Fill and spread with boiled frosting. Top may be sprinkled with coconut.

Cotillion Cake.

[Two 9 inch layers.]

½ cup butter, margarine, or vegetable shortening
1½ cups sifted sugar
3 cups sifted cake flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup milk
½ cup water
1 teaspoon vanilla
¼ teaspoon almond extract
3 egg whites, beaten stiff

Cream butter and sugar together until fluffy. Sift flour before measuring and resift three times with baking powder and salt. Add dry mixture alternately with liquids, a small amount at a time. Beat after each addition until smooth. Add flavoring. Fold in egg whites, beaten until stiff but not dry. Bake in two greased, wax paper lined pans at 375 degrees for about 20 minutes. Fill and frost with Lady Baltimore filling and frosting.

Lady Baltimore Filling and Frosting.

1 tablespoon light corn sirup
⅔ cup boiling water
2 egg whites, beaten stiff
1 teaspoon vanilla
¼ pound figs, chopped
½ pound raisins, chopped
½ cup pecans, chopped

Combine sugar, corn sirup, and water. Stir over low heat until the mixture boils. Continue cooking until a small amount of the sirup forms a soft ball, or spins a thread, 240 degrees. Pour sirup in a fine stream over the beaten egg whites, beating constantly. Add vanilla and continue beating until thick enough to spread. Add fruits and nuts to half the frosting. Spread between cake layers. Cover cake top and sides with remainder of frosting.

Delicate Shawl for Invalid Is Lacy in Design

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

There are numerous occasions for which a light weight, lacy crocheted shawl is a necessity. For the invalid the lacy shawl is indispensable and items such as this are ideal for gifts regardless of the season. There is no trick to crocheting this long shawl which was so popular in the gay '90s. It is done in a shell stitch in a lightly openwork design. Fine wools of the Scotch fingering type, pompadour, fine angora, or baby wool may be used for this model. The fringe may be long or short, depending upon individual taste.

For instructions for crocheting the shawl in openwork shell pattern, No. 3-84, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th avenue, New York City.

According to CULBERTSON

Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.

When one defender rises to the heights of brilliance it is a bitter blow to have his partner play like a wooden Indian. That was West's fate in the following deal. Of course he could and did salve his wound by delivering a few choice remarks after the hand was over, but these had no visible bearing on the score.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 club	Pass	1 diamond	1 heart
2 diamonds	Pass	4 diamonds	Pass
5 diamonds	Pass	Pass	Pass

West made his normal opening of the heart king and, when the dummy appeared, he could not be very sanguine about his chances to defeat the contract. South was marked with considerable strength in spades; indeed, could hardly hold less than both the ace and king to justify his four diamond jump bid. Since that was true, it appeared that only two tricks, in hearts, could be taken by the defenders unless West could get in a club ruff for the setting trick. This might be easier said than done. East could not possibly be put on lead in any suit except hearts and since West himself had the four top honors, East would need the ten spot to serve as an entry. Still, since there was no other ground for hope, West at the second trick underled his remaining heart honors! He was delighted to see East play the ten. But a moment later this delight changed to sheer horror when East, having recovered from the astonishment of holding the trick with the ten spot, blindly led back a spade! From that point on the defenders had no vital interest in the proceedings. The declarer drew trumps and spread the hand.

"Too bad, partner," East piped cheerfully. "There goes the rubber!"

"You're darned tootin', it's too bad!" West rasped. "I suppose it never entered that alleged brain of yours to return a club!"

"A club? Why, what good would that have done?"

"O, not much. I just would have ruffed it for the setting trick, that's all."

"Well, gee whiz, how could I tell you were void of clubs? I thought that you were trying to put me on lead so that I could lead a spade through declarer!"

"Then you must think I'm an awful dope!" West snorted. "Do you mean to say that I would jeopardize the rubber for the mere hope of an extra 100 points? If, by any miracle, I had had the ace-king of hearts and the ace or ace-queen of spades, how could I fail to lay down my three tricks, with a club suit like that facing me in dummy? And, anyway, I couldn't have had the ace of spades! Any player in the world except a partner of mine would have known that the only possible reason for my going to such length to put him on lead would be to get a club return!"

Personally, I must cast my vote for West. In fact, I think I'll sneak back to the polls and vote several times again for his irrefutable argument.

Perfect for Busy Women

WOMAN'S AND MISS' SKIRT AND BLOUSE.

If you're in the business world, college, high school or are a busy woman of affairs, you need practical things in your wardrobe. One of the most utilitarian modes is the two piece outfit of skirt and blouse. The patterns today offer two skirts and a shirtwaist blouse, all tailored to perfection and styled youthfully.

Pattern No. 3407 fashions two different skirts, one paneled and with inverted plaits at the hemline, the other plaited all the way around. Woolen and silk both make up well in either version.

To accompany them is pattern No. 3036, an impeccably tailored shirt blouse with typical collar, buttons or studs down the front, and shirring emanating from the shoulder yoke. The sleeves may be long or short, and there is a patch pocket to hold a 'kerchief. Silks, cottons, and soft woolens all make up beautifully.

Style No. 3407 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, and 34 inches waist measurement. Size 16 or 28 waist requires 3¼ yards of 54 inch material for the plaited model and 1¾ yards of 54 inch for the gored version.

Style No. 3036 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 2¼ yards of 39 inch material.

Each pattern costs 10 cents.

Gifted Child Needs Special Development

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

The mothers who recognize superior ability in their children need advice, but probably receive less of it than any other group of mothers. So, for that reason and because there are, according to statistics, so many gifted children in this country I make a few suggestions that will be helpful to parents who are noticing unusual capacities in their children.

A great deal has been done for the average child's education and behavior training, a great deal has been written and done for the subnormal child. The treatment of the exceptional or superior child has been until recently a neglected subject. Yet it is a vitally important one, since in the gifted child class may be our scientists, our artists, and our original thinkers of the future.

That our exceptional child needs exceptional handling is being more and more widely recognized. When colleges wake up to the fact we know they are gaining ground, and one of our leading universities is now making plans to deal with exceptional students by having a special class for them.

It is not going to be possible to deal thoroughly with the subject in this one article, so I shall give some rather brief but adequate reading references to cover the subject. But one point I do want to make to correct a misconception that exists in many a mother's mind.

The old picture of the infant prodigy with an enormous head, spectacles, a thin little body, with thin arms and legs has no basis in fact. It is a fallacy that the gifted or brilliant child is weak or puny. So, the parents of superior children may erase from their minds the fear that their children's great mental abilities or special talents are developed at the expense of their bodies. This is not true. In fact, the contrary is the case. It has been actually proved that the children of exceptional ability are superior physically—larger, stronger, and better developed.

A few facts are obvious—that the gifted child should have an education which gives him opportunities to develop his unusual capacities; that he should have an understanding at home which gives him the richness of living that he needs; that he should also have an all around development with plenty of play, companionship, and outdoor life. This last is essential.

The progressive schools are the ones best fitted to cope with the exceptional child; but if such are not available for your child you can supplement his education by your own intelligent approach to his mental capacities or special talents.

A reading "Reference Leaflet on the Gifted Child" will be sent on request. Address Mrs. Gladys Huntington Bevans, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill., inclosing stamped, self-addressed envelope.

New Year Pleas to Jews Stress Faith in Future

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Sundown last night and traditional ceremonies ushered in the Jewish year 5699. Today for all Jews and tomorrow for the orthodox are the most solemn of the Jewish year. While Rosh Hashanah emphasizes self examination and penitence, the pulpits of temples last night were not without a note of hopefulness despite persecution of Jews in many lands as well as the threat of European conflict.

Rabbi George Fox of South Shore temple, president of the Chicago Rabbinical association, asked his congregation last night to view present conditions with both optimism and fortitude. The world, he declared, has had its conquering dictators before; Hitlers and Mussolinis swaggered and bluffed nations long ago in their lust for power.

"History retrieves itself in Europe's two madmen," said Rabbi Fox, "and recalls that their predecessors, Hammurabi, Alexander, Caesar, and Napoleon are gone. The Jew has outlived them all and will outlive Hitler and Mussolini. The world has been impregnated by the ideals of the Bible, and if it would seem at such times as these to weaken in upholding these ideals, our faith proclaims that justice will conquer in the end and peace will ensue."

Rabbi Solomon Goldman, of Temple Anshe Emet, president of the Zionist organization of America, pointed out last night that the ever burdened shoulders of the Jew will carry additional load during the year 5699 in the form of deep sympathy and kinship with other peoples who are now suffering or oppressed.

The ten million Jews of the world, three million of them in America, he said, began their New Year service with a "fervent, prayerful petition for peace and security, not only for the Jewish people, but for the whole of mankind."

Dr. Goldman stated that three million Jews of other lands are either homeless or soon will be so. Of that number, he said, two million are in Poland, where the wave of anti-Semitism has not even yet reached its crest.

The holiday season will see large funds raised not only for the relief of Polish Jews under the direction of Aibert Brown, director of the Federation of Polish Jews in America, but also for needy Chicago Jews and for the maintenance of the Orthodox Jewish Home for the Aged, and other charities.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 25.—The sun shone brightly in Milwaukee today. But the brightest light in the community was Cecil Isbell, a Tribune All-Star, who led the Green Bay Packers to a 28 to 7 victory over the Chicago Cardinals in a National Football League game.

The 22,000 jammed into State Fair park sent up a roar of acclaim for the curly headed Texan when he loped off the gridiron on which he had established himself as a first flight star in professional football by throwing and receiving the passes which led to three Packer touchdowns.

Isbell came into the game in the second period after the Packers had established a seven point lead on Bobby Monnett's eight yard pass to Milton Gantenbein and Full Back Clark Hinkle's extra point. His first play was a sixteen yard run off tackle, which was nullified when both teams were offside. On the next play he threw the first of his four passes, three of which were completed. It went to Don Hutson for 27 yards and it set off a drive that carried 63 yards to the Packers' second touchdown. His other contributions in this march were an eight yard pass to Hutson and the reception of a twelve yard toss from Herber, which placed the ball on the Cardinals' 10 yard line.

Passes to Herber for Score.

At the start of the third period he led the Packers on a fifty-one yard, three play touchdown march, figuring in each play. Bolting inside the Cardinals' left tackle, he twisted away from two tacklers and went eight yards. Then he took Herber's pass for twenty-eight yards, putting the ball on the 15 yard line, from where he passed to Herber for the touchdown. His last play in the game was a fifty yard forward pass maneuver on which he leaped high into the air to make a running catch, after which he continued twenty yards to the 2 yard line.

A lapse on defense and a poor kick were the only blotches on his remarkable record for the game. The kick gave the Cardinals an opening in the third quarter and the defensive lapse led to their only touchdown when Isbell allowed Bill Smith, veteran end, to get behind him and take Rookie Jack Robbins' pass for a twenty-three yard gain on the 5 yard line.

Robbins, like Isbell a first year man and a member of the Tribune's All-Star squad last month, was almost as impressive although far from as successful in his professional debut. Robbins threw twenty-one passes and completed twelve for 141 yards.

Packer Line Too Strong.

The Cardinals found more than a match in the Green Bay line, and they were held in check throughout except for the thirty-nine yard thrust on which they scored.

Robbins' passing gave the Cardinals an even break in first downs, each team making twelve, but the Cardinals' offense was limited to eighteen yards gained by rushing against 120 for Green Bay.

On the first play of the second period, Joe Laws broke outside the Cardinals' right tackle and he went forty-one yards to the Cardinals' 34 yard line. Monnett made it first down on two bucks and a Cardinal offside and Hinkle slipped outside left tackle for eleven more, bringing the ball to the 11 yard line. Laws picked up three, then a Monnett pass fell incomplete. On third down Mon-

STREET REACHES JOURNEY'S END; FIRED BY BROWNS

Barnes Says Club Needs Change for 1939.

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Gabby Street was notified today that he will not be signed to manage the St. Louis Browns next season.

The news came with unexpected suddenness shortly after the Browns' double victory over the Chicago White Sox.

The announcement was issued by President Donald Barnes of the American League club, who said it was a reply to Gabby's request to learn his status for next year.

"I advised him the club did not expect to renew his contract for 1939," Barnes stated.

He's Done His Best.

"He has served the club faithfully, and I believe he has done as well as any one could have done but I believe it is necessary to engage a new manager."

The old sarge, however, will continue as manager for the balance of the season.

"And it will be a considerable time after the season closes before the new leader is selected," Barnes added.

Barnes said he had a number of men in mind to succeed Street, but he declined to mention any names.

Street's dismissal comes just two weeks after Sam Breadon, owner of the St. Louis Cardinals, surprised the baseball world by firing Frankie Frisch as manager of the Gas House gang. Street was succeeded as manager of the Cards in mid-season, 1933, by Frisch, and now both are out.

They're Out of Cellar.

After leaving the Cards, Street went into the minor leagues, and in midsummer last year resigned as manager of the St. Paul club of the American association. A short time later he came to the Browns as coach under Jim Bottomley, when the latter replaced Rogers Hornsby as manager.

The Browns finished last in 1937, but are in seventh place at the present time, three games ahead of the Athletics.

PROTHRO TO MAJORS

Memphis, Tenn., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Dr. James Thompson [Doc] Prothro, who resigned recently as manager of the Little Rock Travelers of the Southern association, will manage a major league baseball club in 1939, he said tonight.

Prothro, who lives in Memphis, refused to divulge the name of the team.

"The announcement, of course, will have to come from the club that signed me. Naturally they asked me not to say and, of course, I wont."

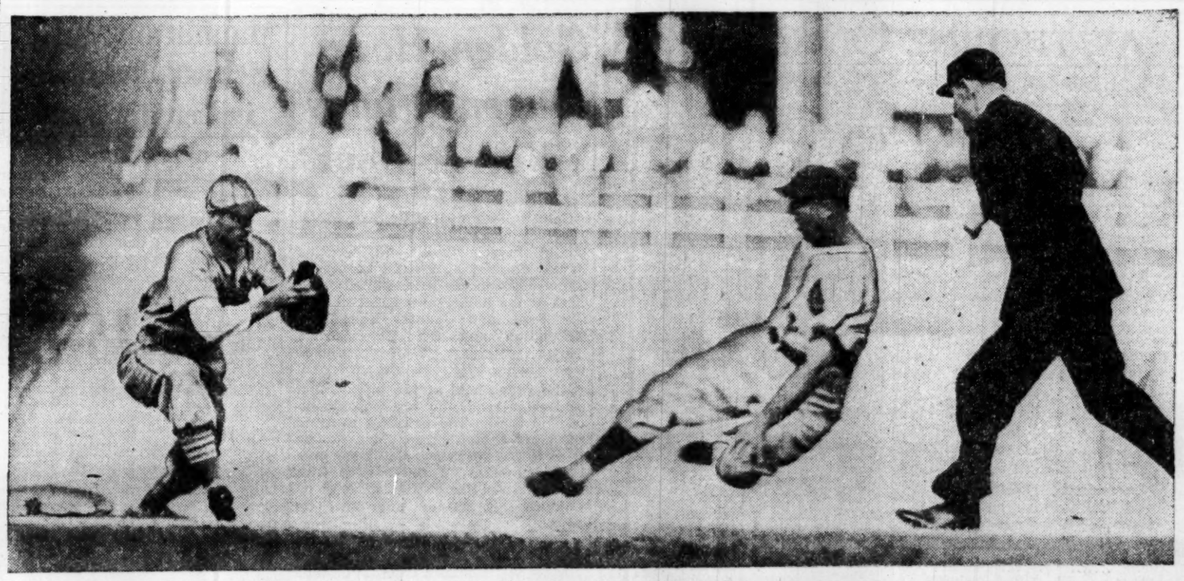
Nice Try Billy, But the Ball Is There First!



Billy Herman, Cubs' second baseman, makes a desperate effort to slide safely into second base in the fifth inning of yesterday's game with the Cardinals, but Shortstop Lynn Myers of the Cards has the ball and Herman is out. Larry Goetz is the umpire. The Cubs went on to win, 7 to 2, however, and remained two games back of the leading Pirates. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Bengals Pass, Run to Defeat Bears, 17-13

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—The Cincinnati Bengals defeated the Chicago Bears, leaders of the National Professional Football league, 17 to 13 in an exhibition game today in the Xavier university stadium before 7,500.

The Bengals shoved over two touchdowns in rapid succession in the first half, then fought tenaciously the rest of the way to protect the lead. They added a field goal in the third period after the Bears had scored two touchdowns.

Bears Finally Score.

A seventy-five yard drive, highlighted with brilliant running, passing and line smashing, gave the Bengals their first score. Before the Bears could recover from the bombardment, the Bengals scored again, this time with a long range pass.

The Bears made their first touchdown just before the half ended when Ray Johnson took a backward pass from Gene Ronzani, then passed thirty-five yards to George Wilson in the end zone.

An Intercepted Pass Helps.

An intercepted pass at midfield paved the way, in the third period, for the Bears' second tally. Swisher intercepted one of Howlett's tosses and Carl Brumbaugh passed to Lester McDonald for fifteen yards. On the next play Brumbaugh passed far down the field to Swisher, who went five yards to score. The lineup:

REDS AND GIANTS ARE ELIMINATED FROM TITLE RACE

New York, Sept. 25.—(AP)—The National league pennant race became a two team race today with the final elimination of the New York Giants and Cincinnati Reds, leaving only the Pittsburgh Pirates and Chicago Cubs to fight it out through the last seven days.

Words Without Music.

I watched a parade today, and I
Thrilled to the sound of young feet marching by;
How jaunty their step—how perfect their time,
As the boisterous drums spoke their martial rhyme.
Adventure, armed with a brilliant baton,
Led the starry-eyed marchers, and a rapt "Carry On!"
Swelled from the throat of their stern Capt. Pride,
Whose aid, Sergt. Glory, sought to quicken their stride.
Glory and Pride, Adventure and Men,
All present, and yet—so I counted again—
One was missing, it seemed, from the spectacle's breadth,
Then I knew it to be the grim general, Death—
Banished, his right to lead assayed,
His demands ignored as the music played.
Then my heart remembered. Sick, afraid,
'Twould have no part of that parade.

Eagles Pick Up Giant Fumbles to Win, 14 to 10

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Two long runs for touchdowns by Bob Pylman and Joe Carter after New York fumbles helped the Philadelphia Eagles defeat the New York Giants, 14 to 10, in a National Professional Football league game today.

Pylman, a tackle, scooped up the ball and ran eighty-eight yards in the second quarter to give the Eagles their first score. Carter, an end, scampered ninety-two yards in the last period to put the Eagles ahead. Late in the second quarter the Giants penetrated to the Eagles' 10. Then Dale Burnett fumbled and Pylman took the ball and he was off on his long run.

In the final quarter Kink Richards of the Giants fumbled at the scrimmage line on the Eagles' 11 and Carter snatched the ball and ran almost the length of the field to score.

REDSKINS WIN, 37-13

Washington, D. C., Sept. 25.—(AP)—The Washington Redskins, unleashing a powerful ground attack that reached its peak in the third period, defeated the Cleveland Rams, 37 to 13, in a National Professional league football game today.

A pair of Redskin freshmen—Andy Farkas, former Detroit university star, and Bill Hartman of the University of Georgia—led the winners, who again were without the services of their two star backs, Sammy Baugh and Riley Smith.

Washington scored a field goal in the first period, a touchdown in the second, three touchdowns in the third, and another touchdown in the fourth. Cleveland failed to score until the fourth period.

BROWNS DEFEAT OUR WHITE SOX IN DOUBLE BILL

Whitehead Is Beaten, 7-2; Boyles Loses, 8-4.

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Acting Manager Bill Webb of the White Sox, as swell a fellow as one could meet, isn't doing so well. The White Sox aren't going any place, but there's a limit to insults, and dropping both ends of a double-header today and three out of four in the two day series with the Browns is something Mr. Webb doesn't care for.

Johnny Whitehead toiled in today's first game and was whipped by Buck Newsom, 7 to 2, while Harry Boyles, rookie from down Texas way, was bested by Emil Bildilli, a youth from the same sector, 8 to 4, in the second battle. Frank Gabler pitched the last two innings.

Newsom's victory was his nineteenth, against fifteen losses for the season, but a little Sox punch here and there would have had him in the showers or at least in difficulty.

Three Crash Homers.

The Sox outhit the Browns in the opener and got as many hits in the second game, but it didn't help anything except batting averages.

Three home runs were belted out of the park, Joe Kuhel hitting his eighth in the eighth inning of the first game with a man on base; Gerald Walker his sixteenth in the fourth inning of the second game with one on, and George McQuinn hitting one with the bases empty in the fourth inning of the same game. Four double plays by the Browns took Bildilli out of difficult situations.

The Sox enjoy an off day in Cleveland tomorrow, and on Tuesday open a three game set against the Indians.

FIRST GAME

Whitehead walked Almada, McQuinn and Mazzera, the first three batters to face him in the first game. Almada counted on Clift's line drive to Radcliff and, after Grace lined to Radcliff, Kress sent McQuinn across the plate with a single.

Appling singled and Rosenthal walked to open the second inning and Kuhel singled and Owen walked with one out in the third but each time the Sox lacked the punch to drive anybody across.

Another Hit Is Wasted.

Newsom then set the Sox down in order until Appling opened the seventh with a double just inside the foul line in right field. Luke got as far as third but no farther.

Newsom's nineteenth victory was assured after the Browns' sixth. Eight men faced Whitehead and four of them scored on passes to McQuinn and Mazzera and singles by Grace, Kress, and Heffner.

Newsom was deprived of a shutout when Kuhel whacked his eighth homer of the year in the eighth. It came behind Walker's single and netted two runs.

A pass to Clift and singles by Kress and Sullivan in the eighth resulted in the seventh and final Brown run.

SECOND GAME

Boyles' hard luck started immediately after he struck out the first batter to face him in the second game. McQuinn walked and Mazzera got a cheap double when Radcliff played the ball badly, McQuinn scoring. Clift walked and, when Walker dropped Kress' fly, Mazzera secored and Clift moved to third. Harshany and Hughes walked, the latter pass forcing Clift across the plate.

Walker doubled, stole third, and scored as Meyer hit into a double play following a pass to Radcliff in the second.

Boyles' error to open the third, coupled with singles by Kress and

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Cubs, who have given up the thought that the swooning Reds are going to help them by scoring a few runs against the Pirates, yesterday afternoon continued their program to help themselves by winning day after day. Yesterday's instalment of this sure road to the pennant was a 7 to 2 victory over the Cardinals.

The triumph, which was witnessed by 30,014, was the Cubs' sixth straight victory, the sixteenth in nineteen starts and Clay Bryant's No. 19. The Chicagoans can gain a half game on the Pirates this afternoon by beating the Cardinals in the finale. They won't have to ask anything of the stunned Reds. The Pirates have a day off. If the Cubs win today they will start a three game series with the Pirates tomorrow 1½ games behind the leaders.

By folding up against the Pirates yesterday the Reds were mathematically eliminated as pennant contenders, which may relax them a bit for the remaining four games they have with the Pirates in Cincinnati, after the impending clash of the Pittsburghers and the Chicagoans.

Make Four Double Plays.

Though the Cubs slumped back to their customary under-ten-hits attack, they distinctly remained in a pennant mood. They made three runs on three hits in the third inning and four runs on two hits in the seventh. They wasted only three hits—singles in the first, fourth, and sixth innings.

The Cub defense was the thing yesterday. The challengers played errorless ball and completed four double plays, two of them as the result of superlative efforts by Carl Reynolds and Bill Jurges.

The Cards made eight hits, but had Bryant near the ropes only once. This was in the sixth inning when the St. Louisans whittled a 3 to 0 Cub lead by scoring two runs on doubles by Johnny Mize and Mickey Owen and a single by Lynn Myers. Bryant's control was great, and that means victory always. Clay didn't walk or hit a batsman.

Run Making Starts in Third.

The afternoon's run making started in the third. After Bryant had flied to Moore, Hack singled to center and stopped at second when Herman

If—

By staying two games ahead of the Cubs yesterday the Pirates made the Chicagoans' task of winning the National league pennant one game harder. With only seven games left to play the Pirates can play less than .500 baseball, winning three and losing four, and still force the Cubs to win six out of seven games to clinch the championship. The standing would be:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Chicago	90	62	.592
Pittsburgh	88	63	.587

If the Pirates win four of their seven the Cubs would have to sweep their remaining seven games to finish with this standing:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Chicago	91	61	.598
Pittsburgh	89	61	.593

Regardless of what Pittsburgh does the Cubs must win three more games than the Pirates to beat them out. Thus five victories in seven games would give Pittsburgh the pennant.

GOPHERS REVEAL SHORTCOMINGS IN OPENING CONTEST

Victory Over Washington Is Inconclusive.

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 25.—Although Minnesota defeated the University of Washington in its opening game, 15 to 0, the Gophers actually were not that much better. Neither did Minnesota reveal any talent to alter the opinion that it has power but is slow and short of backfield replacements.

Minnesota's backs, with the exception of George Franck, understudy to Harold Van Every at left half, and Wilbur Moore, varsity right half, lack speed. Larry Buhler, who appears to fit the mold that produced Bronko Nagurski, Stan Kostka, and Sheldon Beise, has power but is not exceptionally fast.

Good Backs are Scarce.

Shortage of back field replacements is important. Phil Belfiori may be used for George Faust at quarter back, but the coaches indicated they expect to place the burden of generalship almost entirely on Faust. Marty Christiansen will relieve Buhler, but when Moore goes out, Van Every moves over to right half and Franck steps into left half. Actually, Minnesota now has only Van Every, Faust, Moore, Buhler, Christiansen, and Franck to depend upon in a hard battle.

Faust, as field general, wasn't incompetent, nor was he able to move the Gophers forward in extended drives until the fourth period, when Minnesota traveled thirty yards for its second touchdown.

Gophers Break Up Passes.

Minnesota's success in intercepting five of Washington's sixteen forward passes was in marked contrast to the ineffective defense which lost the Nebraska game last season, 14 to 9, when the Cornhuskers completed three passes in five attempts, the last scoring the winning touchdown.

The Gophers used a 6-2-2-1 defense against Washington consistently and they still were surprisingly fortunate in the unorthodox assignment of linemen on pass defense. Last year Ray King, Gopher end, intercepted a Northwestern pass which checked the Wildcats when he came across behind his own line to cover. This same roving by King later gave Wisconsin its opportunity to make ground at his position.

Harry Stuhldreher, Badger coach, explained that Howie Weiss' gains in that game were the result of Wisconsin's plan to take advantage of King's predilection for leaving his position.

Johnson Decides the Game.

Against Washington, Bob Johnson, defensive guard, pulled out and came wide along the line of scrimmage to intercept a pass and return seventy-seven yards for a touchdown. This definitly ended Washington's drive for victory. It is not unusual for linemen to assist on defense against passes. This is essential, but Johnson came out of the line on first down when Washington was on Minnesota's 23 yard line. The number of downs and position of the ball made Johnson's wide race across the field to cover a surprise maneuver. It can be said in rebuttal, however, that Washington already had proved inefficient in line attack and that only passes were feared by Minnesota.

Washington's six fumbles may be compared with the six Illinois made while losing to Ohio university, 6 to 0. While Illinois' fifteen first downs to Ohio's one indicate the Illini were a much stronger team, they didn't score. Fumbles also assisted U. C. L. A. in running over Iowa, 27 to 3, Friday night. A fumble, a blocked kick, and an intercepted pass accounted for three of U. C. L. A.'s touchdowns, but there's no solace in this detail for the Hawkeyes. Iowa now has two weeks to prepare for Wisconsin.

Elward Was Right.

Mal Elward's assertion that Purdue is fast and expects to have a good team by mid-season, apparently was soundly based. Purdue whipped Detroit, 19 to 6, coming from behind in the second half with Jack Brown, iron man of the Purdue-Indiana game last fall, and Mike Byelene, a newcomer, leading the assault. Now, if Purdue can get past Butler, the Boilermakers may begin to worry over Minnesota.

The oustanding surprise yesterday was Southern California's 19 to 7 licking by Alabama. The Southeastern champions piled up three touchdowns with sustained attacks before handing the Trojans a touchdown by a fumble. The Trojans had been rated the best U. S. C. squad in five years.

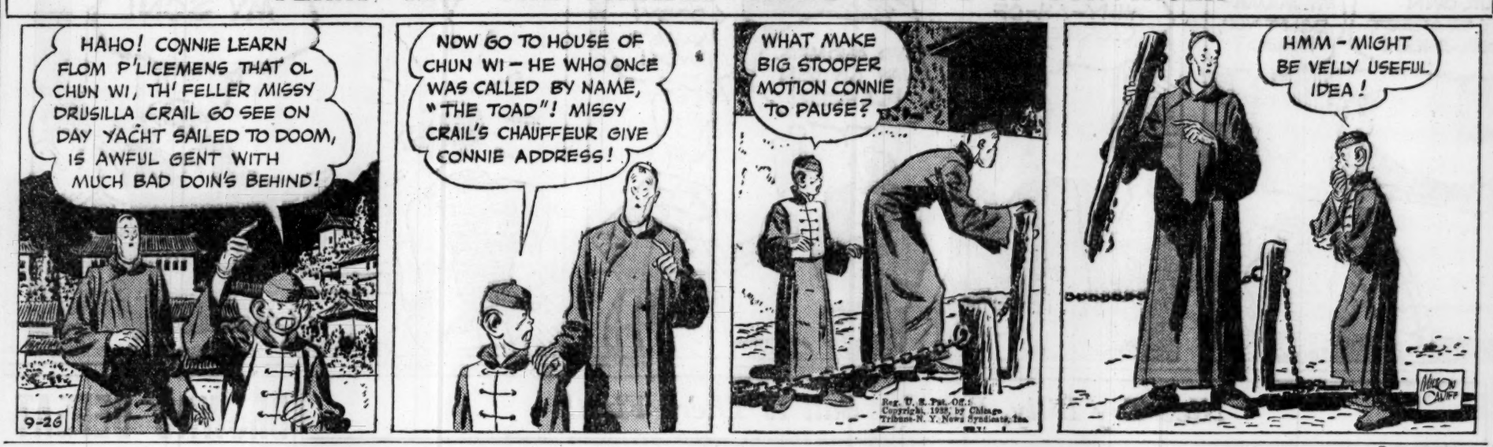
TERRY AND THE PIRATES—BRING ALONG A CONVINCER



Packers Beat Cards, 28 to 7; Isbell Stars

nett jumped up and fired a spot pass to Gantenbein coming across from right end for the first touchdown.

The Packers soon started their second march. Coffee punted out of bounds on the Packers' 37 yard line.

Isbell came in at this point and signalized his presence by going sixteen yards inside right tackle. Both sides were offside, however, and the play was nullified. On the next down, he passed twenty-seven yards to Hutson. Isbell spun for a yard through center before firing another pass to Hutson. This one gained eight yards.

Another to Hutson failed, but on the next play, Isbell took a pass from Herber for twelve yards, putting the ball on the 10 yard line. Hinkle moved up seven yards in two smashes. On third down Hinkle drove inside the Cardinals' weak side tackle for the touchdown.

Isbell Takes Charge Again.

Isbell took charge again as soon as the Cardinals had received the opening kickoff in the third period and punted back. He made eight yards inside left tackle, then took a 28 yard pass from Herber for a first down on the Cardinal 15 yard line. On the third play of the drive he passed eight yards to Herber for the third Packer touchdown.

Isbell had a few bad minutes after this score and before he snapped out of it the Cardinals had a touchdown. Isbell hurried a punt and it slipped off his foot, going short to Tinsley, who returned twelve yards to the Packers' 39 yard line. Robbins passed five yards to Parker, reversed through tackle for six, and passed over Isbell's head down the side line to Smith for 23 yards and a first down on the 5 yard line. Smith went over, but he had stepped out of bounds on the 5 yard line. Lawrence scored on three plunges.

Green Bay reëstablished its twenty-one point lead in short order. Bruder brought the kick back thirty-two yards to the 37 yard line. Jankowski went wide around left end for nine yards. After two plays failed, Herber fired one of his copyrighted long range shots and Isbell made a running, leaping catch, going to the 2 yard line. It was a gain of fifty yards, twenty yards of it on Isbell's run. Jankowski bucked over for the touchdown.

Golden Haze, Queen's Fancy Win at Show

Golden Haze, owned by Mrs. M. O. Tate of Chicago, won the five gaited saddle horse stake, and Queen's Fancy, entered by Lucille Lorber of Glenview, won the three gaited stake class at the horse show sponsored by the Town and Country Equestrian association and the Mary Crane league yesterday. Both champions were ridden by Frank Moran.

The show, held at the intersection of Harms road and highway 58, attracted 5,000. The proceeds went to the Mary Crane league. Mrs. Robert B. Frank of Glenview, riding her own horses, carried off top honors with three firsts. Her entries were Little Colonel, My Nu-Joy and Will Be King.

North shore exhibitors won most of the prizes in the saddle horse classes, while entries from La Grange and Hinsdale proved strongest in the hunter and jumper events. Miss Lorber and Sherle Sass, astride Queen's Fancy and King Fontaine, respectively, maintained their record of never having been defeated in horse show classes for pairs.

Springfield, owned by Carl G. Speidel of La Grange, scored two firsts—one in the class for jumpers and the other in the knockdown-and-out event.

Winning corrected time for Ariel was 1 hour 11 minutes and 18 seconds. Rubaiyat, sailed by Henry Rubinkam, had a corrected time of 1:17:10.

Two races for Columbia Yacht club dinghies were sailed yesterday in Grant park harbor. Mel Olsen piloted his Frostbite dinghy, Wet-or-Dry, to first place in both heats. He won the first one and one-half mile triangular race in 28 minutes and 9 seconds and the second in 28:44.

FEREBEE PLAYS 165 HOLES AND CONTINUES EAST

Phoenix, Ariz., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Twenty minutes after he had completed 81 holes on the Encanto course here, J. Smith Ferebee, Chicago's durable broker-golfer, was aboard his chartered plane en route to Kansas City, Mo., where he will resume his transcontinental links derby tomorrow morning.

Ferebee has wagered the half interest in a Virginia plantation he won from his friend, Fred Tuerk, in another marathon golf stunt that he can play 600 holes in four days, finishing in New York. His itinerary includes Los Angeles, where he played 84 holes this morning, Phoenix, Kansas City, Milwaukee, Chicago, Philadelphia, and New York.

His score for this morning's competition was 406 and for this afternoon's, 370. Wagers totaling $100,000 are reported to have been made on the venture.

HOERNER SHOOTS 147; KEEPS C.D.G.A. CHAMPIONS TITLE

Jack Hoerner of the North Shore Golf club successfully defended his Chicago District Golf association champion of champions title yesterday when he shot a 70—77—147 at North Shore in the annual 36 hole event.

Stanley Grauman of Northmoor was runnerup with 75—82—157 and Robert Ascher, Idlewild, finished third with 80—78—158. Champions of C. D. G. A. member clubs composed the field.

St. Luke's Beats Hope, 9-5, in First Playoff Game

R. D. Lutton Shoots 69 to Win Santa Fe Tourney

Hally Boxes 3 Rounds in Drill for Day

Wally Hally, rated highly as a lightweight in Hollywood, Cal., ended hard training yesterday in Trafton's gymnasium by going three rounds with Sparmate Willie Ross for his ten round bout with Davey Day in Marigold gardens tomorrow.

Day, who will be defending his No. 3 rating among the 135 pounders, was given a layoff yesterday, indicating the Chicagoan is below the stipulated 138 pounds. He will conclude drills this afternoon by doing light exercises, as will his opponent.

Hally, formerly managed by Gus Wilson, one of Georges Carpentier's backers during the French idol's American campaign fifteen years ago, two months ago placed himself under the management of Frank Bachman, who piloted Maxie Rosenbloom to the light heavyweight title in 1930. Hally, 22 years old, has satisfied critics that he will extend Day. In practice bouts Friday, Saturday, and yesterday Wally showed he is a crowd pleaser, a lad who takes the fight to his foe.

Dick Kist, Danville welterweight, will be in quest of his fifth consecutive victory in a five round secondary attraction against George Nelson. In matches of four rounds Joe O'Signac clashes with Norman Roth, Gene Spencer with Earl Gibbs, and George Nyberg with Gorgie White.

Matches this evening in White City, 63d street and South Park avenue, bring together Pete Schu and Mike Markoff, Angelo Martinez and George Mansor, Otto Schnabel and Dudy Kay, and Fritz Schnabel and Roy Rickenbacher. . . . King Kong, who was to have opposed Hans Schnabel in the windup bout, was injured yesterday in an auto accident at Glenwood-Dyer road and Lincoln highway in East Chicago Heights. He was taken to St.

PIRATES RESORT TO LONG HITS TO BEAT REDS, 5-3

Arky Vaughan Drives Out a Home Run.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Punching out an assortment of extra base hits, including Arky Vaughan's sixth home run, the Pittsburgh Pirates beat the Cincinnati Reds again today, 5 to 3. Red Lucas was forced off the mound in the ninth by a two run Cincinnati rally, but he received credit for his sixth victory.

The triumph maintained the Pirates' two game lead over the Chicago Cubs and at the same time mathematically eliminated the Reds from the National league pennant picture.

Cubs Defeat Cards; Remain 2 Games Back

banged a sharp single to left. Demaree walked, loading the bases, after which Galan sent a lazy bouncer to Brown. Brown fumbled the ball momentarily, but recovered in time to step on third, forcing Herman. The fumble, however, was just enough to keep him from heading off Hack at the plate or making a double play at first. Reynolds followed with a single to left, scoring Demaree, and when the ball evaded Medwick and rolled to the wall, Galan scored and Reynolds reached second. Weiland tossed out Hartnett.

Going into the fifth, the Cards boasted a total of two hits and one threat, the threat, in the third, having been snuffed out on a great shoestring catch by Reynolds, which bloomed into the first of the Cubs' series of four double plays.

Then the Lights Go Out.

In the fifth, the Cards turned on the heat and had the tying run on second when the light went out. Mize opened with a double to right center, after which Brown lined to Reynolds. Owen also doubled, scoring Mize. Myers singled to right, Owen stopping at third. Padgett batted for Weiland and sent a long fly to Galan, Owen scoring. Myers stole second, but Jurges threw out Moore.

The Cards made two bids for the tying run before the Cubs got steamed up for their seventh inning splurge. S. Martin led off the sixth with a single and advanced on Bordagaray's sacrifice. Medwick slammed one toward left, but Jurges leaped high in the air, pulled down the ball with one hand and tossed to Herman to double S. Martin off second.

Brown singled with one out in the seventh, but Jurges and Herman reeled off the third Chicago double play.

Here's How Cubs Clinched It.

Jurges walked and advanced on Bryant's sacrifice. Hack was safe on S. Martin's fumble, Jurges stopping at third. Herman walked, filling the bases. Demaree singled to right, scoring Jurges and Hack and putting Herman on third. Shoun replaced McGee and Galan doubled to left, Herman scoring and Demaree stopping at third. Reynolds was given an intentional pass, loading the bases. Hartnett flied to Bordagaray, Demaree scoring the last run of the game.

Bill Lee, whom Manager Hartnett had said would be held over for the Pittsburgh opener tomorrow if possible, will pitch for the Cubs today in quest of his 21st victory and a new National league record for successive shutout games. If the Cards fail to score this afternoon, Bill will have registered his fifth successive shutout. No National league pitcher ever has pitched five shtuouts in a row. Curt Davis, who has been doing much better for the second division Cardinals than he ever did for the contending Cubs, will start for St. Louis.

ROSSI CAPTURES PRESIDENT'S CUP; NO OPPOSITION

Washington, D. C., Sept. 25.—(AP)—President Roosevelt and 50,000 others saw Count Theo Rossi of Italy make a one-man show of the 12th annual President's cup regatta on the Potomac river today.

When no American gold cup boats showed up to race him, the Italian agreed to give the smaller 225 cubic hydroplanes a one minute and fifty second time advantage over the 15 mile course. Five started against Rossi, but only one—W. E. Gatewood's trim little Manteo from Norfolk, Va.—gave him a race.

Breaking President cup records on each of his six laps, Rossi caught the Norfolk boat in the home stretch, and knifed ahead at the finish.

Mr. Roosevelt, who watched from the presidential yacht, Potomac, invited the count to his boat for congratulations.

Come, Now!

Expect Court Aid to Ask Full Consolidation.

BY WILLIAM BROMAGE.

An independent proposal for unification of the surface lines and the elevated railways, prepared under federal court instructions, will be placed before Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson today.

Walter A. Shaw, traction adviser to Judge Wilkerson and the coördinator in recent efforts to bring the two systems under a single management, will make the report.

The nature of his recommendations is not known even to the managements of the two traction systems, it was reported. Unification is demanded by the city as a condition for a new transit ordinance.

Consolidation Demand Seen.

Those who have participated in the conference with Shaw for several months believe he will propose a financial consolidation of the companies, not simply an agreement for unified operation. This would require an exchange of securities and complete fiscal reorganization of the surface and elevated companies. They have been in receivership many years.

While the companies are not bound to agree to his proposal, Shaw's recommendations should carry more weight than any unification plan put forth in recent years, traction experts said.

They pointed out that the companies are under Judge Wilkerson's jurisdiction and Shaw is his agent in this undertaking. It was recalled that Judge Wilkerson warned in plain language before the adjournment of his court for the summer that neither the court nor the city would stand for any more delay in settling the traction muddle.

Judge Impatient at Delay.

He indicated that unless the surface lines settled their differences with the city this fall the properties would be put on the auction block at a foreclosure sale. He has warned the elevated lines repeatedly that the precarious financial condition of the system makes it imperative that it be reorganized.

In view of his demand for a quick settlement it is expected that he will insist that negotiations for unification and a new city ordinance proceed at once under the program which Shaw will recommend.

R. M. CALKINS, 52, STEEL COMPANY PRESIDENT, DIES

Raymond Mott Calkins, president since 1933 of the Steelox company, a steel construction concern, died yesterday in his home in Deerfield, Lake county. He was 52 years old and a son of Ransom M. Calkins, former president of the Milwaukee railroad, who died in 1932.

Early in his business career, in 1908, Mr. Calkins became a partner in the Hammond-Dodson company, St. Paul, Minn., dealers in western ranches. From 1916 to 1919 he was American representative of the commonwealth government of Australia and the commonwealth government steamship line, and was engaged in shipbuilding in Seattle, Wash. For the next nine years he was president of the Northwest Gypsum Products company, Lewistown, Mont. He returned to Chicago in 1928, and since had been associated with investment houses.

He was a member of Sigma Phi fraternity, the Union league, and Episcopalian clubs, Chicago, and the Knollwood Country club, Lake Forest. Surviving are his widow, Kathleen, and two daughters, Miss Eleanor Jane Calkins and Miss Kathleen Bradley Calkins. Funeral services will be held at 4 p. m. tomorrow in the chapel at Roschill cemetery.

Ice Man on Police Waiting List Tackles Holdup Pair

As befitted a man on the waiting police list, Herbert Meyers, 29 years old, 4930 North Bell avenue, couldn't allow two bandits to hold him up, even with guns. Meyers, an ice man, encountered the two robbers at Leland and Damen avenues last night. He brushed their guns aside and then swung recklessly at them. They had to smash him on the head with a gun, stunning him, before they could escape. Meyers now is about 500 down on the police list, but Damen avenue police praised him as the type that belonged nearer the top.

GIRL OF 5 DIES OF DISEASE THAT TOOK HER EYES

Geraldine Nelson, 5 years old, of 3402 North Ashland avenue, died yesterday, a victim of glioma of the retina, the cancerous growth which attacks the optic nerve and progresses to the brain.

The child, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Nelson, was stricken when 2 years old and her right eye removed. Within the next eighteen months she became totally blind.

Before complete blindness came, a second operation, to remove the left eye, was suggested to the parents, but when told its result was uncertain, they decided against it, the attending physician said. Then death was "only a question of time," he said.

MAYOR TO CARRY NEW APPEAL FOR SUBWAY TO ICKES

Mayor Kelly probably will go to Washington in a few days to make a new appeal for construction of a Chicago subway system. He so announced yesterday when he returned from the American Legion convention in Los Angeles.

"I have hopes that the report of the government engineers, made public Saturday, will give us a chance to get to work on the subways," the mayor said.

The engineering board approved a two track subway under State street, but declared against the city's proposal to build tubes in Washington and Jackson streets to carry west side surface cars through the loop. Instead they recommended a subway in Dearborn and Lake streets to connect west of the river with the Lake street elevated lines.

If the city accepts the engineers' plan, the government will be asked for a $14,258,000 PWA grant. A decision on this application would have to be approved by Public Works Administrator Harold L. Ickes, who said several weeks ago that the project was "temporarily laid aside."

NEWS OF FINANCE AND COMMERCE

STRIVE TO SAVE NASH PAY ROLLS FOR WISCONSIN

Way Sought to Avoid Closing Plants.

Racine, Wis., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—Conferences will be held tomorrow between officials of the Racine and Kenosha locals of the United Automobile Workers of America, a C. I. O. union, and S. Norman Moe, Milwaukee attorney representing Gov. Phil La Follette, to seek means of preventing the closing of the Nash automobile plants in Wisconsin.

After these conferences, an effort will be made to bring Nash officials into a meeting with the union leaders, Moe said.

The Racine union local, whose blockading of the Racine plant brought the decision of the Nash company to close its motor plants, will have a meeting of its membership in Racine tomorrow night, according to Clarence Truckey, the local president.

Voice Hope for Reopening.

In spite of the announcement of the corporation that the Kenosha motor plant and the Seaman body plant in Milwaukee would close tomorrow night as a result of inability to operate successfully under restrictions imposed by the union, there was hope among city officials and business men that the shutdown might be only temporary.

R. A. De Vlieg, general works manager, who posted the announcement of the shutdown, explained there is a possibility that the men may be back at work soon.

"We will reopen as soon as possible," he said. "It is entirely up to the union."

Another spokesman for the company confirmed a report that the plant would reopen if the union agrees to conditions which would facilitate operations.

Consolidation Hits Snag.

Nash operated closed union shops in Racine and Kenosha. Its union difficulties arose from its decision to close the Racine factory and concentrate operations in Kenosha. The Racine union has picketed the plant here since Aug. 22, thus preventing the removal of essential tools, jigs, and dies needed for the manufacture of new models.

The company proposed to employ Racine men in the Kenosha plant, only 10 miles away, but the Kenosha local insisted that all Kenosha men should be provided with work before any Racine men were taken on.

The two locals have not been able to compose their differences on this question of seniority. During their bickerings, production was halted by the tieup of equipment in the picketed plant.

Depends on Upturn.

De Vlieg said the company never has cast off the Racine plant as an operating unit, and that it would be reopened if production were to reach a point where both factories could be operated profitably.

It also became known today that C. W. Nash, chairman of the board of the corporation, and a number of other executives have notified H. F. Edmunds, district assessor of incomes here, that their legal residences hereafter will be Grosse Point, Mich. This will cause a heavy loss of personal income tax revenue to the state, as well as a loss to Kenosha merchants in personal business of the officials.

This loss also was noticeable in figures of the community chest drive in Kenosha. The amount usually collected is around $100,000. The personal contributions of C. W. Nash and other officials who have left Kenosha averaged more than $15,000.

Others Who Have Moved.

Among others who moved from Kenosha in August were C. H. Bliss, son-in-law of Nash; Harold Long, vice president and purchasing agent; Courtney Johnson, former sales manager; Claus Anderson, office executive, and Leroy Todd, export sales manager.

The loss to Wisconsin industry and the subsequent decline in state income and corporation taxes will be far-reaching if the Nash corporation adheres to its decision to close its plants.

Among Wisconsin industries which have supplied the corporation with parts and materials are the Belle City Manufacturing company, the Greene Manufacturing company, Modine Manufacturing company, Wisconsin Screw company, Wisconsin Metal Products company, Walker Manufacturing company, and Western Printing company, all of Racine.

Other Nash Suppliers.

Milwaukee plants supplying Nash under contract include Air Reduction Sales, Briggs & Stratton Manufacturing company, Everett Chemical company, Milwaukee Bedding company, Merchants' Chemical company, National Lock Washer, Patek Paint company, Pittsburgh Plate Glass company, Screw Machine Products, Standard Oil company, Siekert & Baum company, Steel Stamp company, A. O. Smith corporation, Topp Oil company, S. K. Williams, Wrought Washer Manufacturing company, and E. R. Wagner company.

Other Wisconsin contributors to the Nash car which would be affected by the plant removals are American Brass company, Dunneback Manufacturing company, Frost Manufacturing company, and MacWhyte Manufacturing company, all of Kenosha; Aluminum Goods Manufacturing company, Manitowoc; Burlington Mills, Burlington; Green Bay Drop Forge company, Green Bay; General Malleable Foundry, Waukesha; Northern Engraving company, Lacrosse; National Rivet & Manufacturing company, Waupun, and Research Products company, Madison.

BARTLETT FRAZIER'S FUTURES COMMODITY TRADE TRANSFERRED

The Bartlett Frazier company announced last night that its futures commodity commission business and its securities brokerage business in the Chicago office will be transferred to Shields & Co. The action is in line with Bartlett Frazier's recently announced intention to discontinue certain phases of its business.

"Open futures and commission business of our Chicago office will be taken over by Shields & Co., together with some of the personnel long identified with our company," said C. D. Sturtevant, president of Bartlett Frazier company.

"We shall, of course, continue to carry on our cash grain and warehouse business in Chicago and at other locations and our branch offices." The change is effective as of Sept. 30.

The company in recent years has revised its organization along lines "commensurate with the times," Sturtevant said. Recently a number of branch futures commission offices were transferred to Thomson & McKinnon.

Shields & Co. is a La Salle street house, with offices in New York and branches in London, Paris, and Amsterdam.

RAIL VOTE COUNT NEARLY FINISHED BY BROTHERHOOD

Counting of the first block of 929,000 railroad workers' votes on a nation-wide strike neared completion yesterday at the Stevens hotel. Announcement of the result, expected to be overwhelmingly in favor of a strike, will be made today. The alternative is an Oct. 1 pay cut of 15 per cent proposed by the railroads.

The tabulation is being made in two sections, one representing the 140,000 workers of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. This brotherhood has broken away from the Railway Labor Executives association and its eighteen member unions. The count for the latter will be conducted today at the Morrison hotel.

If a strike is called, federal laws require that the President appoint a fact finding commission to recommend a settlement.

UTILITY REJECTS MEMPHIS BID ON ITS PROPERTIES

Memphis, Tenn., Sept. 25.—[Special.]—The Memphis Power and Light company has turned down a $13,000,000 offer from the city for its electrical properties, it was learned tonight. The company intimated that negotiations will be ended unless the city increases its price.

Last Friday the company offered to sell for $16,400,418.77, but the city refused the offer.

Profit Shared with Workers by 4,000 Firms

More than 4,000 corporations in the United States have profit sharing, bonus or pension plans for their rank and file workers. This is the finding of a special senate committee which is making a national survey of profit sharing systems. The committee has its headquarters in Chicago.

Donald Despain.

Donald Despain, director of the survey, said yesterday that hundreds of business men are coöperating in the study. Approximately 700 of the 4,000 business concerns queried already have voluntarily supplied the committee with complete details of their plans.

Sponsored by Vandenberg.

The survey was authorized by the senate on a resolution of Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.]. He is a member of the three-man committee. The others are Senators Clyde L. Herring [D., Ia.], chairman, and Edwin C. Johnson [D., Colo.].

Despain said the survey will be the most exhaustive ever made and will provide an authentic record for business men who are studying profit sharing as a means of improving their relations with employés.

He explained that along with its report the committee will make suggestions for legislation to compensate through tax rewards the employers who share their profits with their workers and otherwise contribute to employé welfare.

Study Incentive Program.

"Existing tax programs penalize success and offer no hope of relief from an increasing tax burden," Despain said. "This plan is to give tax rewards to taxpayers who contribute to the country's welfare."

Thomas I. Walsh, technical adviser to the committee, is preparing that part of the study dealing with incentive taxation as opposed to punitive taxation. He is also studying the possibility of tax allowances for employers who undertake to increase employment.

"Many business men have told us," Walsh said, "that if they could be relieved from part of the present tax burden they could undertake expansion programs.

"One thought of the committee is to trade tax credits against dollars spent by taxpayers for prudent plant expansion, for new home construction, for more continuous employment and for voluntary profit sharing plans."

Stock Splitup.

Investors' Guide: I read the other day that Celotex corporation directors had ordered a dividend of one share of common stock for each share now outstanding, payable Nov. 4 to holders of record Oct. 24. Does this mean that I could buy, say ten shares, at any time before Oct. 24 and get ten more shares on Nov. 4? Could I not sell them then and make a good profit on the transaction?—Miss D. B.

Answer: It is true that you can buy ten shares of Celotex corporation stock at any time before Oct. 20 and receive on Nov. 4 ten additional shares. You could then sell them if you wished. Whether you would make a profit on the deal is something else entirely.

Celotex common will sell "ex dividend" on the New York Stock exchange on Oct. 20. This allows time for transfers of stock to be recorded on the books of the company. Holders of the stock on Oct. 19 will receive the stock dividend instead of buyers on the exchange on the ex dividend date and later.

On the day that the stock sells ex dividend, the price per share may be expected to fall proportionately. It will fall because there will be twice as many shares available as there were before. Each share will then represent only half the interest in the company which it formerly represented.

Often, but not always, the stock advances slightly immediately after a splitup of this kind. That is, the price of two shares after the split is sometimes more than the price of one before. The difference, if any, is usually slight.

The principal purpose of stock splitups is to create a wider market for the stock by increasing the number of shares and reducing the market price per share.

Saltex Looms 6s of '54.

Investors' Guide: Please give me information regarding Saltex Looms bonds—6s of 1954.—Mrs. M. F. C.

Answer: Saltex Looms, Inc., is controled and wholly owned by Sidney Blumenthal & Co. It manufactures velvets, plushes, and upholstery. The balance sheet of Dec. 31, 1937, showed total assets of $1,758,459. Current assets were only $570,326, compared with current liabilities of $821,814. The 6 per cent bonds, due 1954, are the company's only funded debt. There are $1,262,300 of these bonds outstanding. They are secured by a first mortgage on the land, building, machinery, and equipment in the Bridgeport, Conn., plant of the company. Net loss in 1937 was $291,054, compared with net loss of $96,563 in 1936. The bonds appear to be speculative.

FIX TAX POLICY, END BUSINESS DOUBT, IS PLEA

Creation of Federal Board Proposed.

New York, Sept. 25.—[Special.]—There is a vital need of ending tax uncertainties to enable business to go ahead with long term programs. This view is emphasized in a report made today by the committee on federal taxation of the American Institute of Accountants. The report was submitted to the council of the institute by Victor H. Stempf, chairman of the committee.

The report contains eight major recommendations for changes in the federal revenue law, summarized as follows:

"The creation of a nonpartisan commission to determine a permanent policy of federal taxation that will stimulate business.

"To equalize the tax burden, particularly between normally steady incomes and violently fluctuating incomes, the general principle of carrying forward losses should be restored.

Urges Consolidated Returns.

"Consolidated returns should be made mandatory, and the taxation of intercorporate dividends should be repealed.

"The principle of the undistributed profits tax should be discarded.

"Capital gains and losses should be segregated, taxed independently at a flat moderate rate without distinction between short term and long term holdings, and with a carryover of capital net losses.

"If retained, the capital stock tax should provide for annual redeclarations, and the excess profits tax should exclude capital gains and losses.

"The provision governing the last in, first out inventory method should be broadened.

Report Covers Wide Study.

"The time for filing federal income tax returns should be fixed at the fifteenth day of the fourth month following the close of the taxable year."

In its report, prepared after consultation with accounting experts in all parts of the country, the committee deals with fifty-one specific aspects of federal taxation, both as to principle and practice. Determination of fixed principles, the report urges, "should strive to bridge the existing gap between tax accounting and established commercial practice. The flexible application of accounting principles, as business between taxpayers should be stressed, with condition that such accounting principles be consistently retained from year to year."

Nation's Markets Return to Standard Time Today

Everyday Economics

Steel Barrel Industry.

There were fifty-eight domestic factories producing steel barrels, kegs, and drums in 1937, according to the preliminary report recently issued by the census bureau of the department of commerce. This number includes only those plants that have an annual output worth $5,000 or more, and are devoted primarily to such production.

The number of wage earners employed in the industry last year was 6,231, or an increase of 8.2 per cent over the 5,761 employed in 1935. The value of all products of these factories in 1937 was $47,843,465. This was a gain of 38.1 per cent over the 1935 value of $34,649,993. These figures include steel barrels, kegs, and drums to the value of $42,058,111 and $29,264,436 for the two years, respectively. Other products not normally belonging to the industry, and receipts for repair work, yielded $5,785,345 in 1937 and $5,385,557 in 1935.

Of the barrels, kegs, and drums, metal beer barrels accounted for $2,288,920 of the total value in 1937 and $2,683,716 in 1935. Last year the number of metal beer barrels produced and specifically reported to the bureau was 805,145, valued at $1,962,913. An estimate of $326,007 was put on the value of other such barrels not reported.

Hitler's Map of Czechoslovakia Which Accompanied German Ultimatum—Red and Green Used by Reichsfuehrer

Tribune Gets Copy of Historic Chart by Radio

The Tribune this morning gives its readers an authentic radiophoto reproduction of one of the most important documents in modern history. Here is shown in the colors used by Hitler himself, the great sweep of the harsh demands Germany has made on Czechoslovakia.

This map was handed to Prime Minister Chamberlain of Great Britain by Hitler. It is as the Fuehrer and his aids drew it. They shaded in red the areas that they must have (they say) by Oct. 1. In green they drew the territories in which they insist on plebiscites within 60 days.

One of two official copies is in Berlin. The other, that which Chamberlain carried away from the conference at Godesberg, was flown to Prague by a British military attaché. From Czech sources the Associated Press obtained this authentic copy. It was transmitted from Prague to London, thence to New York by radio, and to Chicago by wirephoto.

Color in Four Hours!

When it reached The Tribune at 8:30 o'clock last night, work was started immediately to reproduce it in color with a supplementary map interpreting its meaning and showing some of the advantages Germany would obtain if its leader has his way with the Czechs. Artists went to work at once. Color plates were prepared. When the first final edition went to press about four hours later this contribution to the world's history was reproduced as Hitler and his aids had drawn and colored it.

Hitler's demands are severe. Hitler's map on this page shows that the demands would end the military power of the Czechs. By requiring the immediate evacuation of areas he claims are more than half German, the defense lines in the Sudetes mountains and the heights of the Bohemian southwest would go to Germany.

Chops Up Czechoslovakia.

Hitler, his map proves, would take fringes of territory on all the Czech-German borderland, except in two small areas. This fringe would dip 10 to 20 miles into Czechoslovak lands on most of the borders. At one point it would carve into Czechoslovakia 65 miles. Near the center of the republic the German lines would come close, leaving the Czechs a corridor only thirty miles wide for communication between their eastern and western territories.

The red area (claimed by Hitler for Germany) on the west runs within five miles of Pilsen, city of breweries and seat of the great Skoda armament plants. It would be only twenty miles from Prague. Prague's communications with the great cities of Brunn (Brno) and Bratislava would be intercepted by German territories. The great Skoda works would be cut off from the coal at Moravska Ostrava and the steel mills at Vitkovice.

Plebiscites for "Islands."

Of the eight proposed areas for plebiscites, the one north of Bratislava would take in Brunn. That city has the Brunn machine gun works. Another plebiscite territory, on the north, would take in Ostrava. Three "island" areas scheduled for plebiscites would become, if won by Germany, important bites in Czech territory, making more effective the bottle neck between eastern and western Czechoslovakia.

The lands Hitler has staked out in red and green are particularly rich in mining, manufacturing and agriculture.

While the Czechs would still have important deposits of copper, iron, and lead in the Carpathians to the east, under the Hitler plan they would be so cut off from the rich industrial areas that their worth would be seriously hampered.

There is other wealth of the strictly personal kind that would be seized by the Germans.

INTERPRETATION OF HITLER MAP SHOWS MILITARY AND ECONOMIC IMPORTANCE OF TERRITORIES DEMANDED BY NAZI DICTATOR
